Rain Delays Project

The recent rains may have provided some relief for drought conditions in the area, but it has caused some slight delays in the school building project.

Developer Clearing Hill As Land Negotiations Continue

By Sue Aucella Deacon

While the town negotiates with developer Arthur Kalogianis to swap town land for Pole Hill, Kalogianis is trying to "pressure" the town by starting to clear the hill, the Public Works director said Monday night.

The selectmen in turn rejected Kalogianis' request for approval of a sewer system for his proposed Pole Hill subdivision, explaining that their approval would only work against them in the negotiations.

"Trees are coming down. There are bulldozers out there every day," Charlotte Tynning of Andover Street told the selectmen, speaking for a group of Ballardvale residents who have fought the Pole Hill development for more than a year.

Developer Arthur Kalogianis of T.D.J. Development Corp. has the Planning Board's approval to build a 69-lot subdivision on the wooded hill, one of the highest sites in town and the only open area in Ballardvale.

The Conservation Commission was authorized by 1981 town meeting to negotiate a swap: Pole Hill for 25 acres of town-owned land, the "tea lots", located off Woburn Street.

Because it could support more homes, Pole Hill is more valuable to the developer than the tea lots, and Kalogianis is negotiating for a sum of money to go along with the town land.

Public Works Director Robert McQuade told the selectmen he recently asked Kalogianis to stop cutting down trees on the hill until two more negotiating sessions were held, because the director believed a "solution" could be reached in the negotiations.

The developer agreed to stop clearing the land, McQuade said, "but he didn't."

"He is working on a Form A lot (a lot not part of the subdivision because it has frontage on an existing street) that would

Merchants Dealing With Youth Problem

The most substantial turnout of Andover Center Merchants in recent times met with a panel consisting of Police Chief James Johnson, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth Seifert and clinical psychologist Dr. Cornelius Coco, to develop a comprehensive program aimed at the youth of Andover in conjunction with the Andover school authorities and the police department.

The initial phases of the program will entail providing part-time employment for students as well as complete guidelines in dealing with shoplifting offenders.

The guidelines, which are effective immediately, will include notifying the police department in every case and imposing appropriate penalties where necessary, in conjunction with the merchants, police department and school authorities.

All the attending merchants promised their full support to make this program work.

Chief Johnson, in his presentation, reminded the merchants, as well as the consumers, that shoplifting is an unnecessary business expense that must be passed on in the price of the merchandise.

Dr. Coco said, "when the parents are called in to the police station, they are confused, desperate, angry and embarrassed." He further said, "the bigger deal you make of the first offense, the better chance you have of avoiding the second."

Dr. Seifert's major concern is developing positive reinforcement for the majority of students, who are basically good. This issue is being dealt with via the proposed youth employment program.

The follow-up meeting on this subject is scheduled for Dec. 2, 7:30 a.m., at Andover Savings Bank's marketing office. As part of this meeting, security agents from several large stores will share their policies and how they deal with these problems.

Abele Is Scholarship Recipient

Michael Abele, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Abele, Smithshire Estate, Andover, is the recipient of a Beneficial-Hodson Scholarship at The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

Abele, a 1981 graduate of Phillips Academy, was a National Merit Finalist and a member of the varsity track team.

A freshman at Johns Hopkins, he is majoring in natural sciences.

The Beneficial-Hodson Scholarship Program awards merit scholarships to exceptionally talented undergraduate students at The Johns Hopkins University. This program is made possible through the generosity of the Hodson Trust, created by Thoms S. Hodson, founder of the Beneficial Finance System.

Ballet

The Greater Lawrence YWCA will sponsor an afternoon with the Boston Ballet spectacular Nutcracker performance, Saturday Dec. 12. The matinee will be held at the new Metropolitan Center. Over one hundred fifty singers and dancers plus a full symphony orchestra.

Tickets are limited for this show. Reservations must be made early.

PTO Plans Party For Mrs. Fahey

Mrs. Marion Fahey has given many years of dedicated service to the education of Andover's children. The Bancroft PTO has planned a party to celebrate with many of her past colleagues, former students and friends on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 7 p.m. at the Bancroft School.

The PTO welcomes all friends of Mrs. Fahey to join the celebration.

Volunteers Rewarded For Efforts

During the summer months, several local youth groups gave the Community Services department a much-appreciated hand by helping to keep Recreation Park clean. The industrious youngsters were rewarded for their efforts Monday night, when the selectmen presented them with certificates of appreciation.

Certificates were presented to representatives of Junior Girl Scout Troop 832, the Andover Soccer Association, South Church Pilgrim Fellowships, Ballardvale United Church Junior/Senior High Youth Group, the Appalachian Mountain Club, Girl Scout Troop 317, a Brownie Scout Troop, and the Wi-can-ki-ya Group of Campfire Girls (who still visit the park for a monthly clean-up).

Harris Finds He Can't Be Representative

Some weeks ago, Selectman Edward Harris voted against himself as the selectmen's representative to the county advisory board — unsuccessfully: the rest of the selectmen voted for Harris to continue working with the county board.

This week, Harris pointed out that an amendment to state law requires a municipal manager or the selectmen chairman to serve on the board; it is not legal for Harris to serve as the chairman's designee, as he has for the past two years. (Harris was the selectmen chairman when he started representing Andover on the county board three years ago.)

Chairman Norma Gammon's reaction to the news: "Wonderful."

Committee To Meet Once In December

The Land Management Committee will hold only one meeting in December on Wednesday, Dec. 2. The topic will be the 220 acre parcel known as Bald Hill-Wood Hill at the high point of High Plain Road, which includes smaller parcels now under the Conservation Commission.

Overseers of these parcels have been notified and the general public is invited to attend. All meetings of the Land Management Committee are held in the Conference Room, 11 Essex St., beginning at 7:30 p.m., unless otherwise noted.

North Reading Selectman Assists Here

A North Reading selectman will get a glimpse of Andover government by serving as a part-time student intern for Finance and Budget Director (and acting Town Manager) Tony Torrisi.

Kevin Paicos, a selectman in the neighboring town, will work with Torrisi through January, working on the Fiscal 1983 budget, Torrisi reported to the selectmen Monday night.

Paicos is a graduate student studying municipal management at Northeastern University, interning under the school's work cooperative program.

Licenses, Permits Approved

During a regular meeting at Town Hall Monday night, the selectmen approved a brief list of licenses and permits.

The Christian Formation Center on River Road was granted one-day all-alcoholic beverage licenses for Dec. 4, 6 p.m. to 1 a.m.; Dec. 5, 6 p.m. to 1 a.m.; Dec. 6, 4 p.m. to 11 p.m.; Dec. 11, 6 p.m. to 1 a.m.; Dec. 12, 6 p.m. to midnight; Dec. 18, 6 p.m. to midnight; and Dec. 19, 6 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Knights of Columbus, Andover 1078, was approved for a common victualler's license, with Francis P. Reilly of Dascomb Road as manager.

Bay State Gas Company was granted permission to excavate to repair gas mains at 8 Brook St., 286 South Main St., Woburn Street at the South School, and 357 North Main St.

And, as sewer commissioners, the selectmen approved sewer connections for BayBank, 23 Main Street; and 18 and 27 Strawberry Hill Road. They also corrected action taken during their Nov. 2 meeting, explaining that Wang received approval for a sewer extension at Andover Tech Park, not a sewer connection.

Hospice Program Advances

At a directors' meeting on Thursday, Nov. 19, at the First United Methodist Church in Methuen, a number of significant actions were taken to advance the program of the Hospice of Greater Lawrence.

The board approved a set of bylaws and directed its legal committee to proceed with the filing of articles of incorporation with the Commonwealth. It was also decided to proceed with the hiring of an executive director for the program. Anyone interested in this position may call Robert H. Klie for information. Job applications and resumes may be sent to G.S. Moran, 420 Common St., Lawrence, MA 01840.

Hospice is a program of care for the terminally ill and their families. A number of interested citizens and organizations have been working on the development of this program of services for several years. The actions taken by the directors represent positive steps toward the establishment of a working professional staff and the initiation of care services to local patients and their families.

The Hospice Board of Directors is composed of 30 community leaders from all of Greater Lawrence and a broad cross-section of local businesses and community agencies and organizations.

Why Mothers Work Is Discussed

Why do women with children work?

Because of economic necessity. Because of the personal satisfaction of a career. Because of the sociability of a job. These were the chief reasons—in that order—listed by those attending a discussion on and by working mothers at Stevens Memorial Library, North Andover, sponsored by Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), Lawrence.

Although none of the women present said they worked because of peer pressure making working the "in" thing—they did agree there is currently a feeling that those who are enjoying being at home with their children—and who can afford to do so—are looked down on by others.

A supportive husband is a major asset for a working mother said Wendy Jewett, RN, of Methuen, head nurse of the LGH emergency room and proud mother of two preschoolers. "I could never be a supermom."

Daycare is a prime consideration for a working mother. Jewett first tried a sitter in her home, but found there were problems of what to do when the sitter was ill and called 15 minutes before Jewett was due at work—or the sitter arrived late. A daycare center open weekends and holidays proved the better choice in this instance despite the expense.

Kindergarten is a more difficult problem since it is only half day. Pat Sheehan, R.N., Ph.D., of Andover, LGH director of education, thought she had found two women who would take her daughter half days, but in August she found she had neither one. Her solution—also an expensive but necessary one—was to enroll her daughter in a private kindergarten which operates a full-day program.

The other problem faced by mothers of elementary-age children is the many activities—scouts, soccer, crafts—that children become interested in, Sheehan said. "You have to sit down and discuss with them what is feasible and what isn't. You develop car pools,

Theatre Class

This winter the Boston Children's Theatre is again offering Creative Drama Classes for teenagers and children, ages 8 to 17.

Registration will be held at Boston Children's Theatre, 124 Holland Road, Brookline, MA 02146, Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and 2, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Classes are offered after school, Monday through Friday, and Saturday mornings, with class assignments based on age and previous experience. A special teenage workshop for ages 14 to 17 meets Friday afternoons at 4:30 p.m.

The primary purposes of the drama classes are personal development, growth in awareness and sensitivity and the training of potential acting talent.

Now in preparation is "Charlotte's Web" with a cast of teenagers chosen from Boston Children's Theatre's own Creative Drama Classes.

"Charlotte's Web" is Boston Children's Theatre's special holiday production at New England Life Hall, Copley Square, Boston, on Dec. 5, 12, 19, 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30. All performances are a 2 p.m.

For information on classes and theatre activities, and for ticket reservations, write or call the Boston Children's Theatre, 124 Holland Road, Brookline.

which means you can pick the group up on your way home from work," Sheehan said.

"People used to ask how I could work with young children. I'd reply because the kids do the housework and cooking," said Martha Wood of Lexington, LGH director of public relations. "But now they are teenagers and busier than I am with sports, jobs and activities. For the first time in 16 years I'm doing all the cleaning and cooking."

Like the others present, she stressed the importance of keeping some non-working time to do things she enjoys—and needs—such as reading, sewing, exercise and town government activities.

Have an understanding with your boss that you will take shorter lunch hours and work extra hours in busy seasons so at other times you can take time off to do special things with your children or attend things at their schools, suggested Betsy Conte, CPA, of Haverhill.

Her children are now in their 20s and agree it is the quality, not the quantity, of time spent that is important.

Today it is definitely financially worthwhile for a woman to work, Conte said. In 1982 any individual can put $2,000 annually into an IRA (individual retirement account). If one did this every year for 20 years and at only 10 percent interest, the account would be worth $134,000 face value. Adding the money saved because this money is tax exempt, it would actually amount to $200,000.

Peer Counseling Project In Fourth Year

The Andover Peer Counseling Project is now in its fourth year of existence and its second year receiving a federal grant from the Department of Education—ESEA Title IV-C. The project is becoming one of the largest and most well-known peer counseling programs in the New England area.

The concept of "peer counseling" has been around for well over a decade. Presently, many school systems, nationwide, as well as scores of alcohol and drug prevention services are utilizing "peer counselors," "educators," and "facilitators" in many different roles. Although the term "counselor" occasionally connotes "therapist" and advice-giver, the peer counselors in Andover High School neither give advice to nor meet in formal, one-on-one therapy session with their peers. Rather, they act as group facilitators, supportive friends, tutors and educators.

In order to perform these various roles, the high school students receive extensive training and supervision. The first step in training is Communications Training (C.T.), a 15-week program in self-awareness, decision-making and interpersonal communication skill. C.T. is open to all Andover High School students. Presently, over 60 students from all three grades are participating in this non-credit course. Students are trained by the project director, Bob Stern, and the director of Outreach, Mimi Weisberg, as well as other professionals in the areas of drug and alcohol use and abuse, divorce and separation and counseling and communication skills. Following training, those students desiring to become peer counselors are individually screened by the staff.

Peer Counselors have the opportunity to utilize their skills in many different capacities, depending on their interests, time commitments and individual strengths. Among the various programs sponsored by the Peer Counseling Project is the center, a carpeted, brightly-colored room adjacent to the cafeteria. It is open to all high school students desiring a "safe" place to go during their free periods. Staffed by peer coun-sors, the Center is used by a diverse group of students to eat, talk, laugh and cry in.

Peer Counselors are presently being trained on the M.O.I.S. computer career planning aid in order to help other high school students in their career and college decision-making process.

Peer Counselors coordinate an extensive tutoring program for high school, as well as junior high and elementary students. The Peer Counselors make matches between students in need of academic help and those who excel in academic subjects.

The Connection, a drama group consisting of Peer Counselors, is a new addition to the project this year. These actors and actresses are presently writing, planning and rehearsing various skits dealing with the issues of adolescence and childhood. The Connection is planning performances, both live and on video tape, for classrooms and special programs for the Andover community as well as other school systems. Following the performance, the Peer Counselors will be available to facilitate discussions with the various audiences.

This spring Peer Counselors will be working with a consultant/trainer in order to run a Wilderness Program for special needs students. This program will be part of the resource room and consist of several weeks of hiking, reading and discussions, ending with a camping trip to the White Mountains.

Peer Counselors also coordinate a series of evening educational programs for parents and teens. These programs deal with several relevant topics such as drug use, depression and suicide, alcohol use, parent-teen communication and sexuality. The first of these programs will be held in early December dealing with "Choices After High School."

Several of the programs offered by the Peer Counseling Project are geared towards younger students in the elementary and junior high schools. The Big Brother/Big Sister Program utilizes Peer Counselors who receive additional training and on-going supervision in order to spend time with younger students in need of role model-friends. These "little brothers and sisters" are referred by parents and counselors and meet at least once a week with their "big brothers and sisters" to go bowling, shopping, playing, talking, etc.

Peer Counselors also receive additional training and supervision from Mary Gendler, a Boston University Doctoral Intern, and Wendy Palmer, the school adjustment counselor, in order to facilitate small discussion groups with elementary school students going through or who have gone through a divorce or separation in their family. These groups of two peer counselors and eight to ten younger students meet weekly for approximately 10 weeks.

"Peer Pressure" groups are run by Peer Counselors for sixth grade classes. These groups deal with the pressures of smoking, drinking, drug use, dating and the fears of entering junior high school. Peer Counselors receive additional training and supervision from Brenda O'Brien, the health education coordinator, and Mimi Weisberg, in order to facilitate this four-week program.

The Andover Peer Counseling Project has an advisory council made up of parents, clergy, school administration, student council and local mental health professionals. This council meets regularly with the staff and peer counselors in order to share ideas and concerns regarding the direction of the project and community's needs.

For further information, comments or suggestions, contact Bob Stern or Mimi Weisberg at Andover High School.

Christmas Party For Children

The Big Brother/Big Sister Association of Greater Lawrence will hold its annual Christmas party for children on Thursday, Dec. 17 from 6 to 8 p.m. at 430 North Canal St. Highlights of the party will be making Christmas decorations, tree-trimming, carol singing led by guitarist, John Privitera, a visit from Santa Claus and refreshments.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters, a Merrimack Valley United Fund agency, serves children 7-16 from single-parent families who need and can benefit from long-term, one-to-one relationship with an adult volunteer.

A Big Brother or Big Sister spends a few hours a week with a child, offering dependable friendship and guidance, for a minimum of a year. Children and adults are matched according to interests, personality, age preferences and geographic location. Professional supervision is an important component of the Big Brother/Big Sister Service. The agency depends on adult volunteers 18 and over. Male volunteers are especially needed for the many boys on a waiting list.

For information on how to become a Big Brother or a Big Sister, call the agency.

Installed As Council Vice President

Elizabeth R. Whinn, 89 Chestnut St., Andover, was recently installed vice president of the Merrimack Valley Council. The council is associated with the Patriot Chapter of Telephone Pioneers in northeastern Massachusetts.

The Patriot Chapter is composed of 2,700 regular members and 1,800 life members (retired telephone employees) who dedicate themselves to social and community service in the area.

The Liberty Council, another council associated with the Patriot Chapter, has sponsored Beano parties at Danvers State Hospital, donated equipment for a greenhouse at Hogan Regional Center and camping equipment to the Cape Ann Children's Home. Pioneers in the East Council area entertain the resi-

Christmas At Museum

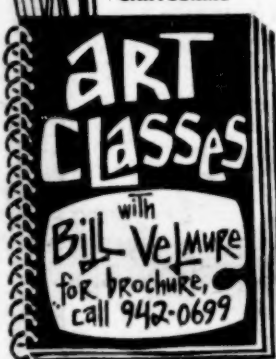

The Essex Institute and Parker Brothers of Salem will co-sponsor a tribute to the Yuletide Holiday. Beginning Dec. 5 and ending Dec. 23 an exhibit at the Institute's museum will feature a full-sized Christmas tree surrounded by antique Parker Brothers' games and toys from the museum. Several Victorian winter costumes will be on display.

On the weekends of Dec. 5, 12 and 19 Santa Claus will visit the Institute's Christmas exhibit between the hours of 1 and 3 p.m. to welcome young visitors aged 9 and under in traditional Christmas fashion. Regular admissions fees will apply, museum members and children under 6 years are free.

In conjunction with the festivities, the Education Department will offer children's workshops on hand-made Victorian tree ornaments. These sessions will be held at the museum at 10:30, Saturday mornings Dec. 5 and 12. Pre-registration and a materials charge is required for each child.

In the Lowell-Lawrence area, Pioneers in the Merrimack Valley Council sponsor parties at the Tewksbury State Hospital and at the R.A.R.A. Center in Lowell. They also support and serve meals at the Bread and Roses, a soup kitchen.

Northshore Pioneers have donated a van to Heritage Industries, a sheltered workshop for the retarded, and man the booths at the fund-raising fairs at Heritage. They also have donated recreational equipment to the Plummer Home for Boys.

In the Arlington area, North Council Pioneers sponsored a Banjo Night to benefit the J.J. Kelleher Center, a sheltered workshop.

Pioneers are active and retired telephone employees who have more than 18 years of service within the telephone industry.

Officers from the Patriot Chapter recently joined with fellow Pioneers from across the country at the General Assembly in Boston, the birthplace of Pioneering. Begun by the early developers of the telephone industry, the group grew from a few dozen men to the world's largest social-industrial organization with more than half a million members.

Stan Waterman

Underwater Photos Featured

The Stan Waterman Show of Underwater Photography on Friday, Nov. 21 at Phillips Academy will be open to the public, free of charge. Townspeople are welcome to the in-person presentation by the famed underwater cameraman in Kemper Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Waterman has specialized in the primitive instinct-motivated shark and the gentle, intelligent whale, but treasure hunting, tropical reefs and all manner of underwater life and adventure are grist for his camera. He filmed the confrontation between Jaws author Peter Benchley and a 16' white shark off the South Australia coast; this footage, which caused a sensation on ABC Network, is part of his program. He was underwater cameraman for the classic production of "Blue Water, White Death," almost ten years before Jaws appeared. Much of his work has appeared in National Geographic, e.g., the manta ray story in the February 1981 issue.

Completes Course In Marines

Marine Lance Cpl. David R. Brown, son of John D. Brown, 42 Pleasant St., Methuen, and Carol D. Brown, 34 Tewksbury St., Andover, has completed the Advanced First Term Avionics (aviation electronics) course.

During the 26-week course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn., trainees studied airborne communications, fire control systems and antisubmarine warfare systems. In addition to the technology of these systems, they studied mathematics, physics, electronic theory and the operating principles of digital and analog computers.

A 1980 graduate of Andover High School, Brown joined the Marine Corps in June 1980.

Computers

Thursday, Jan. 7, is the deadline for registering for the computer science program for the winter semester of the Weekend College at Wentworth Institute of Technology in Boston. Classes will start on Saturday, Jan. 9.

Wentworth's Weekend College enables a student to earn a Bachelor of Science in Engineering Technology degree by attending classes on Saturdays only for eight semesters spread over three years. This makes it possible for a student to be employed full time in industry and still pursue a baccalaureate degree in computer science.

The requirement for admission is an Associate degree or 60 semester hours of college level courses. Students are urged to make application prior to the

Jan. 7 deadline.

Six semesters of the curriculum are devoted to technical courses and two semesters to humanities and social sciences. The technical courses cover Business Programming, Scientific and Engineering Programming, Computer Systems, Data Base Management Systems and Applications, Systems Analysis and Operations and Interactive Systems and Applications.

For further information, contact Dean John Kaczorowski, Jr., Dean of External Programs, Wentworth Institute of Technology, 550 Huntington Ave., Boston, MA 02115.

Concert

The Tri-Town Symphony Orchestra will present a concert for children on Sunday, Dec. 6, at 2:30 p.m. in Masconomet Senior High School cafeteria on Endicott Road in Boxford.

The program is intended to introduce the young listener to orchestral music and to the instruments that make up the entire orchestra. The highlight of this concert will be the performance of "Peter and the Wolf" with Thomas Luddy as narrator.

Tickets will be on sale at the door with adults being admitted for $2 and students and senior citizens for $1 per ticket.

A member of the orchestra from Andover is Walter Kiesel, violin.

Bazaar

The Friends of Austin Preparatory School in Reading will hold their annual holiday bazaar and crafts show at the school, 101 Willow St., Friday, Dec. 4, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Saturday, Dec. 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Highlights will include handcrafted and handmade items, homebaked goodies, a special Christmas table, a "Kiddy Korner," a snack bar and computer pictures and novelties.

Representative New England craftspersons will also be on hand, demonstrating and selling their specialties.

Andover Schools Present Disability Awareness Programs

Next week Andover junior high school students will have an opportunity to participate in Disability Awareness Day, marking the United Nations' "International Year of Disabled Persons."

Sponsored by the Department of Health Education, the program is designed to help students gain a better understanding and sensitivity to the types of disabilities that exist in our society.

During the first half of the program, Lee Abbott, an amputee and owner of the New England Gym-Ken Academy of Gymnastics, will speak about his handicap and how he overcame it. In addition, he will present the film "Celebrate" featuring handicapped sportsmen.

The second half of the program will include a variety of learning stations and exhibits representing the numerous community agencies serving handicapped people. Students will "experience to understand" by participating in exercises designed to simulate different types of disabilities. Participants for the day include the Northeast Independent Living Program, Easter Seals Society, March of Dimes Foundation, Bon Secours Hospital, Lawrence General Hospital, Greater Lawrence Mental Health Center, New England Handicapped Sportsmen Association, Massachusetts Commission for the Blind, Memorial Hall Library, Merrimack Valley Council Pioneers, Boston Self-Help, Assistance Dogs for the Hearing Impaired and the YMCA. Special thanks are extended to the Sheraton Rolling Green and Taylor Rental for their contributions to the program.

The community is invited to visit the exhibits from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 2, at East Junior High School, and Friday, Dec. 3, at West Junior High School.

Outing Club Concludes Fall Program

The West Junior High School Outing Club's fall program came to an end on Saturday evening, Nov. 14, with a "splash party" at the Andover-North Andover YMCA.

This final activity began with a free swim and concluded with a series of swimming, diving and fun events. Winners of the various events included: free style swim, Maura Dunn, Donna Dubanowitz and Amy Goldstein; dog paddle, Kerrin Hoffman and Kim McGinley; submarine (underwater), Eric Shannon and Laura Cervone; porpoise push, Kristen Robinson and Juli Plati; form dive, Juli Plati, Laura Cervone and Kerrin Hoffman; fancy dive, Kerrin Hoffman and Donna Dubanowitz; cannonball, Patrick Stenson, Brad Wright and Maura Dunn; belly flop, Cheryl Crawford and Tracey Iofolla; treasure hunt, Maura Dunn and Eric Shannon; and most unusual bathing suit, Kristen Robinson, Kim McGinley, with an honorable to Mr. Taylor. Members were supervised by Mr. Staples and Mr. Taylor.

Plans are already underway for a full spring program of activities beginning in April.

Awarded Degrees

Sanborn Children Assist

Children of the Sanborn school participated in their third annual Harvest Festival, this year combining the activity with the International Year of the Disabled observance.

The youngsters brought in food, potted plants, baked goods and toiletries to be packed in boxes decorated by the Sanborn Girl Scout troop. The boxes were delivered by fifth and sixth grade youngsters to many elderly and shut-in residents of Andover.

As part of the Harvest Festival, a program of Thanksgiving music and readings was presented under the direction of Mary Guziejka, music specialist. A welcoming committee of fifth and sixth graders greeted guests from Andover Haven. Supt. of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert complimented the youngsters not only for their program, but also for their spirit of giving.

Chairpersons of the day were Maureen Wood and Maureen Atkinson.

A Helping Hand

Sanborn school students conducted a harvest festival last week, collecting canned goods and packaged foods to be placed in baskets and delivered to elderly and shut-ins for Thanksgiving. Here, Elsie Mowat, president of Andover Haven Associates, left, and Tom Powers, chairman of the Council on Aging, express appreciation to students, from left, Michelle Camarotta, Keri Mazonson, Suzette Colitz and Sheryl Trebach.

North Essex Enrollment At Record

Enrollment at Northern Essex Community College is at an all time high and the greatest increase is in technical and business programs, it was announced this week by John R. Dimitry, president of the Haverhill institution.

The total Day Division enrollment for the Fall 1981 semester is 3,343 students up 7.2% from last year's figure of 3,119. The combined total of day and evening students is 7,422. This figure does not include late starting evening classes, CETA programs or specific industry programs which the college is operating.

The major enrollment increases were seen in Business and Technology programs at the two-year college. Enrollment in technical programs jumped more than 22% this Fall, while the number of students in Business increased over 10%. There was generally a slight decrease in the number of students taking Liberal Arts and Health and Human Services courses, although some specific health programs such as Nursing and Respiratory Therapy continued to show an increase. There was also a significant increase in the number of students enrolled in the English as a Second Language Program at Northern Essex, with 115 in the program this year as compared with 86 last year.

Commenting on the unparalleled demand for the college's services and its ability to cope with the demand during an extremely lean budget year, President Dimitry stated, "Our enrollment is at an all time high, and we are able to accommodate our students and meet the demand for our services despite state budget cuts." He added, "Our faculty members are facing larger classes this year, not only because of increased enrollments but because many marginal courses and sections had to be cut due to severe fiscal constraints." The president noted that the college will need additional funding, if it is to continue to meet the educational needs of the residents of the Merrimack Valley.

Voke School Schedules DAT Tests

DAT (Differential Aptitude Tests) examinations are required at Greater Lawrence Vocational School as part of the admission procedure for all students including those applying for Post Graduate Programs. These tests will be administered in the Lectorium at Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational School, 57 River Road, Andover on Saturday, Dec. 12, for the towns of Andover, North Andover and Methuen.

The examination for the Practical Nurse Program as required as part of the admissions procedure, will be administered on Dec. 5.

All tests begin at 7:45 a.m. sharp and will be over at approximately 12 noon. Applications need not be completed prior to examinations.

Programs Planned

The Lawrence Jewish Community Center will sponsor three special programs for the December vacation. The Boston Children's Theatre production of E.B. White's "Charlotte's Web" will be seen on Sunday, Dec. 27, at 2 p.m. at the New England Life Hall.

A trip to the Boston Museum of Science and Planetarium on Tuesday, Dec. 29, and the Ice Capades at Boston Garden on Wednesday, Dec. 30, 1:30 p.m. matinee, has been planned.

The center supplies transportation and tickets for the above programs. Contact Barbara Berman at the Jewish Community Center for further information.

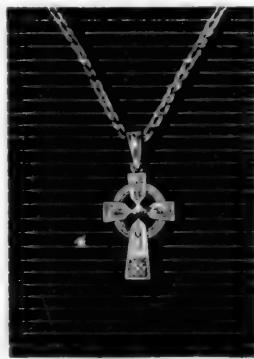

'King And I'

A.C.T., the professional division of the American Children's Theatre, is producing a spectacular event at the Palace Theatre in Manchester, N. H. to bring in the 1981 Holiday Season for family audiences. Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical masterpiece, "The King and I," is coming to the Palace in an all-new full scale production on Dec. 4, 5, and 6 for six performances. The elaborate musical will include a cast of 60 staged in the midst of exquisite sets and costumes. The beautiful Rodgers and Hammerstein score will be played to its full brilliance by members of the New Hampshire Symphony Orchestra.

To Discuss Pingree

The Pingree School, South Hamilton, will sponsor an evening coffee for prospective students and their families from the Andover area on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Kingman Webster, 5 Tammys Lane, Andover. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Peter Hager and Mrs. Robert Lionette, both of Andover.

All families with eighth to tenth grade students currently in public or private schools are invited to attend. Guidance counselors from this area are also welcome.

John Chabrier, assistant headmaster and director of admissions, faculty representatives and Pingree students will discuss Pingree, independent school education, show slides and answer questions.

Financial Aid Info At Session

The Andover High School Guidance Department is hosting a "Financial Aid Information Night" on Thursday, Dec. 3, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the large group room of the high school. Christine Mordach, director of financial aid service at Merrimack College, will make a presentation and answer questions about the Massachusetts Financial Aid Form (MFAF) and financial aid in general.

Copies of the MFAF are available in the guidance department, but will also be distributed at the meeting.

Information on local scholarships and the application procedure will also be available, although local scholarships will not be discussed at this time.

Parents of junior and seniors and/or students who plan on applying for financial aid are encouraged to attend this meeting.

Catch rainwater in barrels and save to give to your shrubs and flowers later.

Shawsheen Plaza Addition Open For Pizza

The selectmen Monday night approved a common victualler's license and an automatic amusement device (jukebox) license for Papa Gino's, one tenant of the new addition at Shawsheen Plaza.

Restaurant manager Joseph Salerno of Holbrook said Papa Gino's would open Tuesday morning, as soon as its certificate of occupancy was ready.

The restaurant is the fifth store to open for business in the new section of the shopping center: Western World.

Sorority Assists Local Area

The Beta Sigma Sorority was founded 50 years ago as a Sorority for college or business girls in Kansas, Missouri. It was created for the young women in search of culture, social activity, and to be of service to all who are in need of aid. Members are invited to join.

As the memberships grew, the second level, the Xi Sigma Chapter emerged, and subsequently, the Preceptor Zeta Chapter was formed. Each member must complete requirements in order to progress to the next chapter.

The Beta Mu Chapter works with local nursing homes, physically and financially.

For years, a Yellow Rose Ball (formerly the Pink Champagne Ball) organized by the Beta Mu Chapter, has donated, literally, thousands of dollars to Cerebral Palsy.

The Xi Sigma Chapter works for any needy cause in the area that needs help.

The Preceptor Zeta Chapter works primarily with the Tewksbury State Hospital, but also donates funds to the Joslin Diabetes Research Foundation, the Leukemia Fund, the Heart Fund, and helps supply dinners and gifts during the holiday season.

Each Chapter is non-profit and helps each other when needed. Information and updated booklets are sent to the libraries and town clerks in the Merrimack Valley.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority is a helping hand to all its 250,000 members (worldwide), and is always ready to assist anyone, members or not, when the need arises.

Christmas Walk

The North Shore Civic Ballet will give a free dance performance at Abbot Hall, Marblehead on Saturday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. The company has participated in the Marblehead Chamber of Commerce Christmas Walk for four years.

Dance photographs of company photographer, Peter Smith, will be on exhibit. "To Dance," the Company's animated slide presentation featuring Smith's photography will open the evening's program.

The Company will perform "Portraits of a Bournonville Classroom," (A Danish romantic ballet), and "Shardem," a neo-classical ballet choreographed by artistic director Paula K. Shiff to music of Antonin Dvorak. Also to be announced. Refreshments will be served at intermission.

Mrs. Syiek Assisting In Fair

Nature and tradition will blend with originality and modernism at the Massachusetts Horticultural Society's annual three-day Christmas Fair.

This creative blend will offer patrons a wide variety of ideas, displays and demonstrations which will serve them well as they prepare to meet the artistic challenge of Christmas home decorating.

The Christmas Fair, again being held in conjunction with the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, will take place on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 10 and 11, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on Saturday, Dec. 12, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Society's Horticultural Hall, 300 Massachusetts Ave., Boston, opposite Symphony Hall.

"We have planned this fair not only to be visually attractive, but also to be helpfully instructive," said Mrs. Richard S. Gallagher of Osterville, president of the Garden Club Federation. "We want everyone to get both enjoyment and information from it, especially in the many uses of natural materials."

One of the highlights will be a standard flower show segment which the Garden Club Federation is basing on various lines in Clement Moore's classic poem, "The Night Before Christmas." Mrs. Alfred Syiek of Andover is chairman of this segment.

Among other features, according to general chairman Mrs. John B. Herweg of Dedham, will be timely exhibits in such categories as Christmas trees, fresh flower arrangements, award-winning decoration, flowering and berry plants, wreaths, evergreens, swags, branches, handcrafted ornaments of natural origin and gift wrappings.

Dance

North Andover V.F.W. Post 2104 will hold its monthly dinner dance on Saturday, Nov. 28.

Happy hour will start at 7 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing at 8 p.m.

For tickets and information, call Gunner Hayes at the Post between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

To Wed In December

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Morrison of Pasadena, Calif., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Martha Fairfield Morrison, to Thomas Sherman Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman F. Drake of Andover. The wedding will take place Dec. 5 at St. James Church in Manhattan. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Ann B. Jones.

Susan Keene Morrison and Newcome Morrison, sisters of the bride, will be maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. Paul Franz Lukaris will be the best man.

Morrison, a graduate of the Hockaday School in Dallas, Texas, received a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Mount Holyoke College. She is employed at the Chase Manhattan Bank as a communications officer in corporate planning and marketing. Her father is executive vice president of Real Estate Industries for Crocker National Bank in Los Angeles.

Drake has completed the credit training program at the Chase Manhattan Bank and has joined the international department. A graduate from Middlebury College, he spent his junior year at the University of Madrid. He received a Masters degree from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy.

His father is a teacher of mathematics at Phillips Academy, Andover.

Regional Theatre Presents The Lion In Winter

Merrimack Regional Theatre's second production of the 1981-82 season, The Lion In Winter by James Goldman, will be presented November 27 through December 20 at the theatre, Broadway and Wilder Streets, Lowell.

The Lion In Winter, a sparkling comedy about family relationships, makes history come alive.

The father is King Henry II of England, the mother is Eleanor of Aquitaine, and their three sons all want to inherit the kingdom. Henry favors the youngest son while Eleanor supports the eldest. The middle son hopes to play both ends against each other to stake his claim. The resulting bickering and bantering, sweet-talking and scheming produces witty and winning entertainment.

"The Lion In Winter... has more wit in every speech than some hit comedies have in an entire evening," wrote Cecil Smith in the Los Angeles Times when the play was first produced there. The New York World-Telegram welcomed the play's "repeated thrusts of delight... The play glitters with the tumbled brilliance of intelligence." The Lion In Winter was produced on Broadway in 1966 and subsequently was adapted for the screen. Author Goldman won an Oscar for his screenplay and Katherine Hepburn's performance as Eleanor earned her an Academy Award as Best Actress.

Jim Oyster plays the blustery Henry. Making his first appearance at MRT, Mr. Oyster was last seen in Boston at the Charles Playhouse in Richard Chamberlain's production of The Shadow Box. On Broadway, he has worked with Zoe Caldwell in The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, Arlene Francis in Mrs. Dally, Cyril Ritchard in Romulus, Ray Milland in Hostile Witness and Peter Ustinov in Who's Who In Hell. Also featured in the New York City Center revival of The Sound of Music with Constance Towers, he has toured extensively in that musical with Shirley Jones. With numerous "straw-hat" and regional theatre credits to his name, Mr. Oyster is also familiar to television audiences having appeared in the daytime dramas "The Guiding Light" and "Another World" as well as in such acclaimed series as "The Adams Chronicles," "Kojak," "The Best of Families," and the recently completed NBC pilot "Breslin's Neighborhood."

Dolores Kenan is the stunning Eleanor of Aquitaine. Miss Kenan comes to MRT after recent appearances at the Ensemble Studio Theatre in New York where she created the roles of Penny in The Rodeo Stays In Town For At Least A Week, Lena in the award-winning The Coal Diamond, and Edna in Nothing Immediate. She recreated the roles of Lena and Edna at the prestigious New Play Festival at the Actor's Theatre in Louisville. The recipient of the New Jersey Theatre Award for her portrayal of Ada in Tobacco Road and the winner of the Drama-Logue Critics Award for the off-off-Broadway production of Last Summer At Bluefish Cove, Miss Kenan was also praised for her role as Mary Tyrone in A Long Day's Journey Into Night at the George Street Playhouse and the Pennsylvania Stage Company. She has acted extensively in regional theatre and counts appearances at Joseph Papp's Public Theatre in Wedding Band (both stage and television versions) and The Killdeer among her credits. Miss Kenan also understudied Colleen Dewhurst in An Almost Perfect Person, and Nancy Marchand and Elizabeth Wilson in Taken In Marriage.

Also appearing in the MRT production of The Lion In Winter are Edmund Davys as Richard and Richards Ford as John. Paul Penfield will appear as Philip Capet, King of France and David Zoffoli will play the part of Geoffrey. Maryann Plunkett, who most recently scored a triumph as Annie Sullivan in MRT's The Miracle Worker, of interest to its members. December's holiday meeting will be a social luncheon opportunity to become acquainted with individual members.

Membership and dinner reservation information is available through Marcia Hohn, 6 Pioneer Circle, Andover.

To Sponsor 'Nutmacker'

The Connecticut Ballet will perform Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker" on Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. at the North Andover Middle School auditorium.

The performance, sponsored by the Merrimack College Student Activities Office, is being presented as part of the college's Arts Series will play Alais Capet. Mr. Davys and Mr. Ford were also in the cast of The Miracle Worker while Mr. Penfield will be remembered from MRT's inaugural season when he appeared in Romeo and Juliet and The Passion of Dracula. Mr. Zoffoli is making his first appearance at MRT.

The Lion In Winter will be directed by Nora Hussey, the acclaimed director of the Boston premiere of Uncommon Women and Others. David "Sparky" Lockner will design both set and lighting for this production and Karl Wendelin will design the costumes.

Performances are Tuesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sunday afternoons at 4 p.m. Nov. 27 through Dec. 20. Group, senior citizen and student discounts are available. For ticket information, call the MRT box office.

Simmons Club Meets

The December meeting of the Merrimack Valley Simmons College Club will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Dennis P. Lessard, 245 Gibson St., Lowell. The president, Margaret D. Roberts, will conduct a brief business meeting after which the group will exchange gifts and enjoy participating in Christmas crafts. Refreshments will be served by the hostess, assisted by co-hostesses Mary Darragh and Elizabeth Hamblet.

ERA Plans Gala For Holiday

The Greater Lawrence National Organization of Women is sponsoring a holiday gala to raise money to affect the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The evening will include music, wine and hor d'oeuvres. It will be held at the home of Maureen and Andy Schwab, 15 Woodcrest Drive, North Andover. For information and reservations, call Fran Donovan or Maureen Schwab.

Circling a crowded block for a parking space can be tiring, but don't let this cause your driving skills to become lax. The ALA Auto and Travel Club reminds drivers to always signal before lining up to parallel park.

What was Lowell like before the mills? Was it farmland? Was it congested with housing? The Lowell Museum will attempt to answer these questions and more with its upcoming exhibition "Views of Lowell, 1825-1920." Funded through the generosity of the Mobil Foundation, the "Views" will be open to the public until Dec. 31.

The exhibition will highlight the development of the area, which was to become Lowell, from a rural agricultural community to a thriving industrial city, world-renowned for its textiles.

Workshop On Dynamics Of Prayer

The Andover Baptist Church and the Free Christian Church are offering a workshop on the Dynamics of Prayer, Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Andover Baptist Church, 7 Central St. The 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. workshop will be conducted by Roe Brooks of Campus Crusade for Christ.

The Prayer Workshop includes a biblical overview of prayer, time for personal prayer, and the opportunity to learn the dynamics of prayer in a group. Participants will study why we pray, how to pray more effectively, the benefits of a prayer diary, how to use the Scriptures during prayer, the power available through prayer, the different aspects of prayer and the joys of praying.

The workshop teaches by means of lecture, film and workbook. More important, participants will learn by actually praying in individual and group prayer times.

Registration precedes the workshop at 8:45 a.m. Bring Bible and bag lunch; beverages will be provided. For further information, contact Carolyn Dagley.

The first state legislation requiring factory inspections was in Massachusetts in 1879.

Rain Delays Some School Project Construction

Last week's days of rainy weather pushed construction behind schedule at West Junior High and Andover High School, but work on the Doherty School is still slightly ahead of schedule, the School Building Committee learned last Thursday night.

William Mansell, project manager for the $13.72 million, three-part school building project, reported on the status of construction to the building committee during a meeting at Town Hall.

Project architect Herbert Glassman of Perley F. Gilbert Associates told the committee the project is "in good shape," adding that there have been "no problems" with the general contractor or sub-contractors.

A late steel delivery caused some delay recently, along with the bad weather, Mansell explained, but "no serious difficulties — nothing some good weather wouldn't make up for."

At Doherty, being converted into a junior high school, general contractor Peabody Construction has completed about 45 percent of the site work, Mansell said. The contractor was planning to hot-top the driveway and parking areas "as soon as the weather breaks," he added.

Approximately 65 percent of the concrete had been poured, he said, including 80 yards that were poured Thursday, when the sun came out for one day. Masonry is about 15 percent completed, including block work.

Nearly half the plumbing is in place, Mansell said, with all the underground plumbing installed, while 40 percent of the electrical work is done, with the underground conduit completely installed.

Demolition is nearly completed, he explained. But work on the HVAC system (heating, ventilation and air conditioning) is "just getting underway," along with the sound, clock and fire alarm systems.

Over at West Junior High, Mansell reported that 75 percent of the site work has been completed, all underground utilities are in, and the concrete is 75 percent completed.

Plumbing at the junior high is about half done, while 25 percent of the water and gas piping is in, and about 10 percent of the electrical work has been completed.

Next door at Andover High, 60 percent of the site work is finished, and 50 percent of the concrete has been poured, the project manager said. About 40 yards of concrete were poured last Thursday for walls.

Plumbing for the new high school auditorium is 40 percent complete, and one-quarter of the electrical work is done, including revamping the existing switchboard, Mansell added.

Meola Construction, contractor for the playing fields at the three schools, was waiting for good weather to lay sod, he explained.

Because a special Canadian peat specified for the fields was unavailable due to heavy rains in Canada, peat from Maine will now be used on the fields.

Stress talk for nurses

"Stress and the Health Care Professional" will be an all-day seminar starting at 8:30 a.m. Dec. 3, at Lawrence General Hospital (LGH) Lawrence, MA.

"Stress is a part of the our everyday lives as nurses. Health care personnel, because of prolonged, intense, emotional involvement with other people's problems, are becoming identified as a high risk occupational group," explained Joyce Russell, RN., BSN, M.Ed., LGH coordinator of continuing education and a faculty member for the course.

"Stress can result in lower productivity, lower job satisfaction and increased risk of illness," she said.

Symptoms and sources of stress will be reviewed as well as techniques for coping with stress.

Selectmen Approve

New Traffic Patterns At Plaza Seem To Be Solving Problems

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Town officials and the owner of Shawsheen Plaza think they've found a better way to get cars in and out of that busy shopping center on North Main Street, and the selectmen think they're right.

The new traffic arrangement, already tried out this week with temporary roadblocks, will become a permanent one with the selectmen's approval.

Plaza owner Gordon Bloom and plaza merchants have been working with the Police Department and Community Development and Planning for the past few months, developing a plan to improve the traffic flow from North Main in and out of the plaza, acting Town Manager Tony Torrisi said Monday night.

Traffic is expected to increase once ten new stores at the plaza are all open, before the end of the year.

In the past, traffic has entered the parking lot through one entrance towards the southern end of the plaza, and exited from another spot next to the Washington Park apartments.

The traffic flow was complicated by cars entering and leaving smaller shopping areas near Taylor Rental, Fotomat, the Towne Deli and the Arlington Trust bank.

Under the new plan, there will be one 48-foot wide entrance and exit in the middle of the lot. Traffic will be channeled through the area by curbing, to prevent cars from cutting across the entrance and exit lanes. Exiting next to Washington

New Traffic Pattern

In an effort to ease traffic problems in the Shawsheen Plaza area, and in anticipation of additional store opening there, new traffic patterns have been made at the entrance and exit. The new design, being tested, will hopefully provide for a smoother and safer flow in the busy North Main street area.

Park will be restricted to right turns only.

Those measures have already been put into effect this week, with wooden roadblocks and ropes used to direct traffic.

Traffic from the plaza will not be allowed to exit through the smaller exits near the bank or Fotomat; signs prohibiting the use of those exits will be posted.

And a red light will be installed outside the plaza.

Community Development Director Jonathan Gilmore said a further traffic study will be done on Route 28 after the new stores are all open.

McDonald's restaurant has also agreed to hire a police officer to direct traffic during busy hours, Building Inspector Sam DeSalvo indicated.

DeSalvo, who was acting Community Development director during the summer, said the plaza owner needed the selectmen's approval before he could make the changes permanent.

"We are in total agreement," Chairman Norma Gammon said. Donn Byrne called it "a good plan."

Police Chief James Johnson reported that a new street light was installed and a traffic box used to make it safer for police officers to direct traffic outside the plaza last week, but drivers still had trouble seeing the traffic officer.

The street light would be changed again this week, the chief said.

New Resident Directors For ABC

After an interim spent with their host families, Andover's ABC (A Better Chance) students are settling back into the ABC House at 134 Main St. with the new resident directors, Jason and Bernardine Sommer, and their children, Matthias, three, and Danielle, one.

The Sommers recently returned from Dublin, Ireland, where Jason was teaching at University College, Dublin, and Bernardine taught in a Dublin primary school.

Jason Sommer, a native of the Bronx, was a temporary New Englander as a student at Brandeis University, where he graduated with honors. He held the Mirieles Poetry Fellowship at Standord, and earned an MA in English literature and creative writing, before the Sommers moved to Ireland for seven years.

Bernardine Sommer is a native of Longford, Ireland, and prepared for teaching at Carysfort Training College. After their return to Ireland, she graduated with honors from Trinity College.

Jason was engaged in doctoral study at the University of Dublin. A poet, he is writing his dissertation on Isaac Rosenberg, a World War I war poet. Jason's poetry has been published in Ireland, Canada, and the New Republic in this country. He was involved in school poetry workshops for the Irish Cultural Affairs Council.

With their varied educational background and personal qualification, the Sommers were the unanimous choice from among seven applicants when the ABC resident director's post became vacant. They have the responsibility for overseeing the educational progress and personal development of 11 ABC students and coordinating the necessary tasks involved in living and study arrangements for the students and their tutors. Jason noted that their wish is to provide a stable environment with clear lines of communication.

The Sommers were welcomed Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bixby by a large gathering of longtime ABC board members, host families and advisory committee members. In welcoming the new directors, the ABC board was particularly aware of a need to foster the sense of mutual confidence among students, volunteers working for the program and the Andover community supporting it.

Dedicated to Painstakingly Preserving Our History

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Ann Russell, director, and Gary Albright, photographic conservator, examine details of the picture in the process of restoration.

Perhaps no other part of this country prides itself on its history quite so much as New England does. Books, letters, maps and papers that document our past have been saved for generation after generation, to be prized today by libraries, historical societies and private collectors.

But paper is fragile. Through the decades it may deteriorate, become brittle — and eventually crumble into dust, taking history with it. "It is a problem whose scope is enormous," Ann Russell of the Northeast Document Conservation Center says.

"One-third of the 18 million books in the Library of Congress are now too brittle to handle," she explains, "as are half the books at the New York Public Library. For many, many libraries, this is a huge problem."

Since it was founded in 1973, the conservation center has come to the rescue of dozens of public and private collectors throughout New England, giving new life to historic pieces of paper that otherwise would have vanished, victims of time.

Located in Abbot Hall on School Street, the center is the only one of its kind in the nation; there are ten other conservation centers scattered across the country, but they concentrate on museum artworks, Russell says.

Only four training programs exist today to teach the art and science of paper conservation; the programs turn out "only a handful of paper conservators in the country," Russell says. "There will never be enough to go around."

And, since many small libraries and collectors can not afford to hire their own conservators, hiring the "top expertise" to staff a center and making those experts available to institutions throughout the region "seems to make sense," she adds.

The six New England states pooled their resources to start the center, originally directed by George Cunha, a former director of the Boston Atheneum. During its first years the center was located in the basement of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum in North Andover.

Four years ago, a year before Russell came aboard as its new director, the center moved into larger and much sunnier quarters on what was once the Abbot Academy campus, before that school merged with Phillips Academy.

"This has turned out to be a very good location for us," Russell says of Andover. "It's central to New England, and we have a proximity to Boston that lets a lot of institutions use us."

One institution that turned to the center for help with a major project this year is Boston Edison Company, one of the center's rare corporate clients (most are non-profit organizations).

Bolted to the wall of an Edison company building (circa 1912) was what appeared to be a painting or lithograph of the Boston waterfront in the early part of the century.

The large painting in its heavy oak frame had been hanging above a curved staircase in the building for longer than anyone could remember, according to Priscilla Korell of Boston Edison's public information department.

When the old building was torn down this year, the company decided to save the painting, partly because of one unusual feature: every doorway and every window in the sweeping view of Boston had been carefully cut out. Gold foil shined through the tiny cut-outs, apparently to show that electric lighting had come to Boston.

Edison crated the painting, which weighs hundreds of pounds in its frame, Korell says, and shipped it to the conservation center for an evaluation.

Once the "painting" was removed from its frame, conservator Gary Albright discovered that it was actually a photographic enlargement of a painting — and dirty, stained, discolored and torn in places. Albright, who specializes in restoring photographs, dubbed it "Panoramic View of Boston."

Long strips of gold foil had fallen away from the back, Albright found, and what was left had been bleached to a silvery color, dimming the "lights-on" effect. The photograph, approximately four by eight feet and dated with a 1907 copyright, also needed to be flattened, re-matted and reframed.

Because he determined the photograph could probably not stand up to a bath in water — the usual treatment — Albright cleaned it by sprinkling it with powdered eraser material and rubbing it gently by hand.

Cleaned and with its torn spots carefully mended, the photograph is now sandwiched between two plexiglass sheets to flatten it, and the conservator is searching for a gold foil similar to the original to let the windows glitter again. (He is thinking of trying gold mylar.)

The restored "Panoramic View" will hang in the electric company's credit union in the Prudential building in Boston by the first of the year, Korell says. It may hang on public display in the Pru lobby for a short time as well.

"It's really being given a new lease on life," she explains. "For the first time, it will hang in a place where it will be really visible — where you can stand back far enough to see it all. And once it's up again, it's not going to come down for a long time, that's for sure," she adds.

The conservation center is also working on a much smaller preservation project for Boston Edison, an enthusiastic letter of thanks from the company's first customer, the Bijou Theatre of Boston.

The Bijou was wired for electric lighting in December, 1882 by the Edison Company for Isolated Lighting (predecessor to Boston Edison), making it the first theatre in the country to boast electricity.

Dated May 18, 1883, the letter was written in pencil by theatre manager Edward H. Hastings. "The system in all its operations has proven faultless and most admirably adapted for our purposes," Hastings wrote. "Mr. Edison and your company are certainly to be warmly congratulated on the absolute success attained."

Other projects currently in the works at the center include four delicate Chinese watercolors owned by the Rhode Island Historic Society; a large wall map of a New York county; a collection of hundreds of photographs owned by the Cleveland Public Library; and a collection of showboat sheet music and other memorabilia of the Mississippi River, to be displayed in a new Mississippi River Museum.

The conservators recently finished restoring original architects' drawings from the design competition for the Lincoln Memorial, owned by the National Archives and to be exhibited in Washington, D.C. next year.

"Some of them were quite fanciful," Russell says with a smile. "One was a pyramid, and one was a great Mayan temple." (All were, of course, rejected.)

Gary Albright applies some cleaning material to the photograph

The project presented special challenges because some of the drawings were quite large — the longest measured 12 feet — and most were done on tissue-thin paper, easily torn and hard to flatten.

Restoring a series of Edward Hopper illustrations for the Whitney Museum was another "tough project," she says, because it was done under "very tight deadlines. The treatments were hard, and it had to be done very carefully — it was a real race to the deadline."

The conservators had to be especially cautious about cleaning Hopper's charcoal drawings, she recalls, because in some cases "it was impossible to tell what was dirt, and what was meant by the artist to be shading. We took the conservative approach — if there was doubt about anything, we left it in."

The John F. Kennedy Memorial Library counted on the conservation center to restore most of its artifacts, including letters written by the late president, his report cards, a watercolor done by Caroline Kennedy at age four, and Rose Kennedy's bible.

But the center's "favorite project" is an ongoing one, she says, pulling open a drawer: restoring architect's drawings done by Frank Lloyd Wright. The famed architect was also "a wonderful draftsman," she notes, gently leafing through the fragile drawings, all done on tissue paper. When the center completes one batch of drawings, the Wright Foundation sends another.

The center will advise against restoration if a document seems "too far gone," Russell says, or if its historical importance would not seem to justify the time the staff would have to spend on a project ("We are not eager to do family bibles").

When judging a document's significance, the center considers who the collector is: a book that belonged to Longfellow would not be particularly important to a college library, for example, but it would be an important part of an exhibit at the Longfellow home.

The center is staffed by 30 people, divided among a paper conservation laboratory, microfilm department, book binding, field service program, and administration department.

Consultants from the field service program visit collections on-site, Russell explains, helping collectors decide what needs to be preserved, and how they can improve the places where collections are stored.

The busy microfilm department records information for collectors as an alternative to more expensive restoration projects, when the collector cares more about preserving the information contained in a document than the document itself. "It's a very practical way to preserve a large volume of information," Russell points out, "for example, from early newspapers."

Conservators need three years of graduate training; the first two years are spent in academic programs, and the last in an apprenticeship. The prerequisites include chemistry, art history and studio art, Russell says, along with "a high level of hand skills."

Paper conservation is "a rapidly evolving field," she points out, as research continually turns up new techniques and new materials for analyzing, cleaning and preserving documents.

It is also a young field, as a tour through the center reveals.

"Most of our staff is young," Russell agrees. "Most of the training programs in the country now are fairly new. It's interesting — the field includes older people trained in Europe, craft-trained. Then there's a large gap, and then you have the young people coming out of the graduate programs today."

Typically, the first step in restoring a document is to wash it — if tests show the ink or other materials used are not water soluble. "Washing strengthens paper and makes it more resilient," Russell explains.

The document is "de-acidified" during the final rinse with a special "alkaline buffer", to help it last longer.

Many projects, large wall maps among them, come to the center on cloth backings. The backing must be carefully scraped away, Russell says, because paper and cloth expand and contract with changes in temperature at different rates, "and eventually the cloth destroys the paper." If the surface is varnished, that must also be stripped away.

After the paper has dried and every tear has been mended, the document is flattened, given a new lining of heavy paper, and usually "encapsulated" in mylar for extra protection and support.

Much the same process is followed for books, which are taken apart, treated page by page, and then rebound in the center's book bindery.

The final result will "last longer than anyone on our staff will live," Russell says.

But even as they work with remnants of the past, the conservators keep an eye toward the future and the ever-evolving technology of their field.

Because they spend so much of their time trying to correct mistakes made "in the name of conservation" years ago, the director says, the conservators follow the "chief principal of reversibility. We will not alter an object."

"We feel that anything we do," Russell says, "ought to be able to be undone by future generations."

Museum Grant

The Society has received an operating grant of $10,670 from the Institute of Museum Services for 1982. This is the third year that the Society has received a grant from the Institute.

The Institute, which is an agency of the federal government, provides grant funds to a wide range of museums, including art, history, and science museums, botanical gardens, zoos, science-technology centers, aquaria, planetaria, and general and specialized museums.

The grant will be used to help defray operating expenses. Funds will go towards maintenance of the Garden in the Woods collection, propagation programs, increased services for visitors, and educational and interpretive programs. IMS operating support will be used to help the "transition to a higher level of access and public support for a nationally important living collection."

Thanksgiving, a traditional and truly American holiday, provides us with the opportunity to pause and reflect on blessings bestowed as well as the ability granted to bear our adversities.

The annual celebration, which brings together families for a traditional feast and joyous gathering, dates back to 1621 when the founding fathers acknowledged a successful harvest and withstanding the rigors of the first winter in the new world.

Then, as now, there was feasting, some sporting events quite unlike those known to us today, and entertainment. But in all of the activity there was an underlying theme of thanksgiving to the observance which had been called harvest days.

To those early Puritans Thanksgiving was like a Sabbath day in midweek, taking time to thank God for His Providence.

Thanksgiving became a National observance when it was proclaimed by the Continental Congress in 1777 which recommended. . . "that servile labor and such recreations as, though at other times, innocent may be unbecoming the purpose of this appointment, be omitted on so solemn an occasion."

National Thanksgivings were proclaimed by Presidents Washington, Adams and Monroe then reinstituted by President Lincoln, with the latter's designation as the last Thursday of November, becoming the standard for all subsequent observances.

It was about this same time that commemoration of the Pilgrims' efforts were included in the Thanksgiving observance, with a designation of Forefather's Day in Plymouth. While that originally was celebrated in late December, the national effort toward honors for the founding fathers eventually became a part of the traditional Thanksgiving celebration.

While the modern observance of the holiday is somewhat different from those original celebrations, the one thing that has remained constant is the blending of the earlier traditions: rejoicing today for the blessings of having ample food, while originally it was for a bountiful harvest; a religious atmosphere combining the opportunity for prayer and feasting and the commemoration of the Pilgrims' landing and the founding of the freedoms we so much cherish and enjoy today.

It is then, in this spirit that America rejoices at this time of year to feast, reflect and be grateful.

There are problems which will not disappear and are in need of attention both at home and internationally. Our lives, much more comfortable than those which faced the early settlers, still face the difficulties of energy shortages, and challenges of an unsettling economy.

But, pausing for this singular day and thinking a bit about what the Pilgrims faced in those early days, gives us sufficient reason to be grateful--not just for what we have, but to the founding forefathers who provided us with a national reason for Thanksgiving.

In today's rapid-paced world, how easy it is to take things for granted and not allow time to just take a moment to say "thanks." Or to take the time to get together with family and friends and simply enjoy the fellowship of being with one another in the spirit of brotherhood.

It was the central theme of those initial Thanksgiving observances and it is equally important today. We are indebted to those early settlers for leaving us with the tradition of having an annual opportunity to offer thanksgiving for all our blessings.

A Happy Thanksgiving to all.

Spraying Needed

An Open Letter to the Andover Board of Selectmen:

After reading in the newspaper your reaction to the petition requesting that gypsy moth spraying be conducted in the town, I am greatly disappointed.

In the past I have never been active in politics or town activities because I am a working mother with every minute of the day planned. However, I am concerned about the gypsy moth problem and your seemingly nonchalant reaction to it.

If any of you live in area that was infested with caterpillars last year, you have experienced the disgust and horror associated with the caterpillars. I myself had them all over my house, covering up the screens and doors, crawling into the house through the fireplace, and turning my white mailbox and driveway and front steps into a seething mass of hairy, black, disgusting larvae.

All of my neighbors experienced the same situation. The month of June was like being an active participant in a horror movie—but it didn't end after a few hours, it lasted for weeks and each minute was more unendurable than the last.

My impression from your reaction to the petition is that you believe the townspeople do not feel strongly on this issue, or that concern for ecology and incorporating a spraying program are antithetical.

I am concerned about the environment, like any citizen would be, but I am very concerned with the short lifespan of the trees surrounding my house, the rash my child will be exposed to, the unsanitary conditions created by and the general horror of the caterpillars themselves. I cannot stress strongly enough the necessity to implement a spraying program. From a health standpoint, a sanity standpoint and a woodland standpoint, spraying must be done to save us and the trees from the agony of another infestation.

Thanks!

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

On behalf of the soccer team at Andover High School, I would like to thank you for your fine coverage. I am sure that it has helped increase the awareness of our team, and I know that many of the townspeople who have youngsters playing soccer now, or in the past, are interested in following our progress. Your coverage has helped to highlight and document our fine season. Our home game in the states was an exciting event, and people read about it first in your paper. Once again thank you very much.

Resignations In Order

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The visible Federal debt has doubled in just six years, from 500 billion to 1,000 billion. But it took 58 years to reach 500 billion, including three war periods of extreme expense.

The above came to mind upon reading the Townsman's front page report, Nov. 19, that Andover's Finance and Budget Director is of the opinion that it is impossible to live within the requirements of 2½%.

By a two to one vote 2½% was approved. And that was in spite of town officials urging rejection. Yet public officials continue to operate and plan using every opportunity to disparage 2½%.

To date only one public official has had the good grace to bow out of town politics because, among other things, he too was opposed to operating the town in accordance with what the voters approved.

Now it is hoped that candidates for the office of

The Public Forum

selectman will declare themselves, both in spirit and in fact, for adjusting town government so that it is operated in accord with 2½ and further, that those town officials, especially selectmen and their town manager, will resign forthwith if they cannot support 2½.

How long would we have faith in a public official who took every opportunity to pan free speech or free press? Yet day after day we are hit over the head by present selectmen and their employees with their notion that 2½ is akin to something imposed by Moscow; rather than sought by the voters right here and now.

2½'s express purpose is to get town government back to reality, back to the needs of a government bled white by imported oil costs, welfare costs, government employee costs and other expenses that however justified they may be, they cannot meet the needs of today's economic facts hence must be corrected.

But the corrections continue to be elusive because elected officials seem to have more concern for the demands of those who take from the government rather than those who strive to produce enough so that something remains with which government may exist.

No one yet has come up with an effective substitute for demanding more and paying less to those who, of their own free will, choose to hold government employment. Public officials who fail to embrace this concept ought to resign.

Government no more than other entities can accomplish its purpose if its officials hold mental reservations against its obligations. A debt of a 1,000 billion dollars demands cuts from A to Z.

JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WEEKLY SPECIALHow Rockwell contributed to the space shuttle's problemsBy JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON -- It's no great surprise that the space shuttle had to be brought down ahead of schedule because of a faulty fuel cell. Such mishaps have been par for the course in the shuttle program.

The shuttle's first flight was delayed because a computer went haywire. Then some of the rocket ship's heat-resistant tiles fell off.

We've been hearing the same sad story for two years now -- that's how far behind schedule the project is.

Every foulup and delay, of course, adds to the cost of the space shuttle program. Incredible as it seems, the rocket ship has cost $3.6 billion more than it was supposed to.

Part of the huge cost overrun, of course, was due to the fact that no one had ever built a space shuttle machine before. That meant the original cost estimates contained a large dose of guesswork.

But there's more to it than that. Rockwell International, the prime contractor, ripped off the taxpayers in scandalous fashion. Here's just one example:

Rockwell had some other government contracts. Unlike the open-ended space shuttle contract, however, these were fixed-price agreements. In other words, when Rockwell went over its agreed-on price, the difference would have to come out of the company's coffers.

Rockwell did indeed go over its budget on these other contracts. But instead of absorbing the loss itself, the company just juggled the books and charged the overruns to the space shuttle. It took government investigators two years to figure that one out.

Rockwell also played fast and loose with its expense accounts, billing the taxpayers for goods and services they never got. It marked up the cost of spare parts and other items outrageously, and it exaggerated its labor costs to take advantage of the free-and-easy space shuttle contract.

A federal grand jury is now looking into the matter. After flying high all these years, the firm may finally be brought back to earth, like its rocket ship.

PHONY TELEGRAMS: We recently received a telegram that supposedly came from the Swedish ambassador to the United States, Wilhelm Wachtmeister. The message said that the ambassador wanted to express his apology to the Polish people through the news media.

What he was apologizing for was a supposed agreement between Sweden and the United States to put an American satellite monitoring station in the Swedish naval base at Karlskrona.

That's where a Soviet submarine ran aground several weeks ago, to the intense embarrassment of the Kremlin.

According to the peculiar telegram, the purpose of having such a monitoring facility at Karlskrona was to spy on Poland.

Such a station would constitute a gross breach of Sweden's neutrality. So the telegram, supposedly sent by the Swedish ambassador, said: "I disassociate myself from my government action in its violation of our neutrality."

Naturally, we called Ambassador Wachtmeister. He disclaimed the telegram and said it was an obvious hoax.

When we checked with the State Department, we were told that similar fake telegrams had been received by national security adviser Richard Allen and Deputy CIA Director Bobby Inman. They were told that Secretary of State Alexander Haig had supposedly struck a secret deal with the Swedes.

A State Department deputy press secretary also got a telegram at his home and received some mysterious phone calls about the matter at his unlisted number.

The telegram we received was badly worded. At one point, for example, it quoted the Swedish ambassador, who speaks fluent English, as saying, "I have just saw today."

The State Department apparently believes the phony telegrams were part of an intricate Soviet plot to stir up trouble for Sweden and the United States.

The diplomats may be right, but we're not so sure. The telegraphic hoax somehow doesn't seem slick enough to be a product of the KGB.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Rep. James Nelligan, R-Pa., is waging a one-man battle on behalf of stogie smokers everywhere. He is attempting to prevent the doubling of the excise tax on cigars. What this country needs, he says, is a good, untaxed, five-cent cigar. Of course, Nelligan just happens to represent the largest cigar-making district in the nation.

— What is an "allegator"? No, it's not a relative of the crocodile. It's the term that General Accounting Office auditors use when referring to bureaucrats who make allegations of waste and fraud in the government.

— Rep. John LaFalce, D-N.Y., would like to make 1982 "American Bald Eagle Year." The congressman has also proposed designating June 20 "National Bald Eagle Day," to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the day Congress named the bird America's national symbol.

Warriors Face Central In Finale

Andover High's Golden Warriors will close out a winning, but in some cases a frustrating season, when they meet Lawrence Central Catholic in a 10 a.m. contest in Memorial Stadium. Lawrence, Thursday morning.

Andover will be trying to up their season record to six wins against three losses and a tie while the Central Red Raiders will be going for a 7-3-0 season which would be their best ever in several years.

The Warrior task will not be an easy one.

While the Red Raiders boast their best record in recent years, the history of this Thanksgiving Day rivalry shows that while Andover is far superior record-wise, the Warriors have consistently had trouble against the Lawrence team.

During their days of reaching for the Super Bowl berth, Central Catholic gave the Warriors all they could handle before winning in one contest and tying in another.

Andover's winning season has been marked by a couple of discouraging losses, one to upstart Haverhill a week ago, and a tie. As late as a few weeks ago, the Warriors remained in contention for a Super Bowl berth again this year but a tie and close loss changed all that.

For Tri-Captains Brien Moriarty, Tim Grams and Carmen Scarpa, and 25 other seniors on the squad, the Thanksgiving morning clash will round out their high school grid careers, which is bound to spur the Warriors to greater efforts.

Joins Center

Boxford resident Pamela Fiske utilizes her dance expertise to instruct men, women and children at the recently opened Joy of Movement Dance and Exercise Center at the Cedardale Indoor Tennis, Health and Racquetball Club in Haverhill.

Special Play

Tri-Captain Carmen Scarpa listens intently as Head Coach Dick Collins gives him a special play during one of the Golden Warrior games this season. Scarpa and a number of other seniors will be hopeful of winding up their gridiron careers on a winning note Thursday morning against Central Catholic.

Grace Emmert

All-Region Selection At Vermont

Grace Emmert, a junior from Andover, has been selected on the second team, All New England, Division One, Womens' Soccer team from the University of Vermont.

The former standout for the Andover High soccer team, led the U Vermont team in assists this past season, helping out on eight scores from her right wing position.

Most notable was her assist in the Catamounts vs. UMass game which Vermont won in a 2-0 upset.

The All New England selections were announced Tuesday morning.

Emmert is also a standout on the track team holding records in the hurdles competition. She holds the school indoor track record for the 55 meter hurdles and is a member of two relay teams that hold school records. The other record Emmert holds is the Archie T. Post field and state records in the 100 meters in the time of 15.2.

Harriers Run In State Meet

By David Eckoff

The Andover High cross country team recently competed in the EMass State championship at Franklin Park. The Warriors scored a respectable 292 points and placed a solid 12th out of the 21 teams in the tough Division II race.

Once again, all-stars Carl Schwind and Rick Dow made strong showings, racing stride for stride to the finish and ending in a tie for 20th place. In his last cross country meet with Andover Senior Captain Scott James placed a solid 60th out of a starting field of nearly 200. Also placing for the Warriors, and also in their last cross country meet for Andover, were senior veteran Chuck Burnett, who placed 90th, and cracker-jack runner Dave Eckoff, who placed 97th. Tony Holbrook and Guy Brooksbank also ran. Noteworthy is the fact that each runner who placed for the team finished in the top 100.

The team's record this year was a disappointing 2-4 in the MVC East. Even though the Warriors were 0-4 at one point, they never gave up. Instead they went on to win against the Voke and Lawrence High, came up with and outstanding post season dual meet victory against Tewksbury, and ran a fine race in the state meet.

The winter track season looks promising for the distance runners. This fall Schwind claimed the title of "Best Miler at Andover High" and Dow and James eagerly await a chance to capture the title from him. Also looking forward to strong seasons will be Burnett, Eckoff and Holbrook.

The 1981 cross country team would like to thank all those who supported them this fall. Special thanks go to the Townsman for their excellent coverage of the meets, and of course, to trainer Jeff Cadmus and coach Gerry Grasso, whose dedication and guidance helped to make this year a success.

Bill Koch League Sets Plans

Adult leaders of the Bill Koch League met at the Rolling Green Ski Touring Center Nov. 19 to plan the 1982 season of cross country skiing for youngsters (13 and under) who want to enjoy nordic skiing and be coached for races and ski jumping by experienced U.S. Ski Association members.

Started five years ago, the Bill Koch League of Andover is the only BKL group serving area youngsters east of the Concord-Carlisle area. Andover members come from Lowell and Salem to join in the skiing at the Rolling Green on Saturday mornings and Wednesday evenings, and in races throughout eastern Massachusetts. Would-be jumpers are taught on the new USSA facilities at Groton Hills by leading national ski jumpers.

At the meeting, Warren (Pat) Patterson, Henry Himber, Art Olsen, Steve Duffy, Les Payne, Robert Horton and Mrs. Max McNeil reviewed plans for four district races and a ski festival in January and February.

The first BKL practice is Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Rolling Green Ski Center at 10 a.m. Anyone interested should show up ready for skiing.

Outdoor Education Program Holds Turkey Raffle

THE TOWNSMAN, NOVEMBER 25, 1981

The seventh grade "blue team" students at West Junior High School presented their fifth annual Thanksgiving Turkey Raffle this month. Funds raised from this event will be used to help finance the Cape Cod National Seashore Environmental Education spring field trip in June 1982.

The winner of the drawing held on Friday, Nov. 20, was Mrs. Joan Levesque, 101 Bellevue Road, Andover. Her son, Mark, sold the winning ticket. The Outdoor Education Program would like to thank all those who participated in this successful fund-raising activity.

Smokers'

Liberation

Persons who want to stop smoking can register now for the next Smokers' Liberation series - starting Dec. 2 - at Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), Lawrence.

The four-session program will meet at the hospital from 7-9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays through Dec. 14.

Facilitator for the program will be Janet Miller, RN, who has led these groups for more than two years. She will be assisted by Dana Howe and Mary Chappis, seniors at the University of Lowell majoring in health education.

Participants will assess their smoking style and plan individual ways to stop smoking. The program uses the American Cancer Society's "I Quit Kit," a guided, self-help program.

A $25 registration fee is required, half of which is refunded if the participant successfully finishes the course.

To pre-register or for more information, call the LGH education department.

Aerobic

Fitness

Registrations are being accepted for the Lawrence YMCA winter term aerobic fitness classes for men and women, members and non-members. The classes run for 10 weeks beginning Monday, Nov. 30, and are held on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays at two convenient times: "Early Bird" from 7 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. and "Noon" class from 12:10 p.m. to 12:50 p.m.

The aerobic program consist of exercises done to music and includes all of the important ingredients of a well rounded fitness program, muscular strength and endurance, flexibility and cardiovascular conditioning. Students are allowed and encouraged to progress at their own level. Anyone interested who would like to participate in a trial class at no charge is welcome to attend the classes during the week of Nov. 23-26. For further information, contact the YMCA office, 40 Lawrence St., Lawrence.

Wilmington League Squirt A

"The Early Bird gets the Worm" would be the story of the game played between the Andover Squirt A and the Wilmington Squirt A teams on Sunday, Nov. 15, as Wilmington raced out to a 4-0 lead before Andover got on the board. Considering the final score of 7-5, Andover "won the second half" of the game 5-3.

After Wilmington's four early goals, Andover finally got on the board when Brent Raftery scored on a pass from Glen Farnham which can only be termed as "the prettiest pass of the year." The score evolved from some hard work at center ice by right winger Matt Adams who fed the puck to Glen Farnham, who made "the great pass" on his backhand hitting Brent Raftery on full stride, who fired the puck low to the goalie's stick side. With the score holding at 4-1, Wilmington was called for a roughing penalty, and Andover's "power-play unit" of wingers Steve McSweeney and Glen Farnham, center Brent Raftery, defensemen David Sopp and Matt Adams clicked with Brent Raftery scoring his second goal of the game with an assist going to Steve McSweeney. The second period ended with the score 4-2 and Andover suddenly was "back in the ballgame." Tributes should go to Andover's five defensemen of McSweeney, Chip Stella, Johnnie Gilmartin, Michael Tiberii and the team's only eight year old, Kenny Leng, for holding Wilmington at bay while Andover got back in the game.

Wilmington pushed the score to 5-2 early in the third period, but Andover quickly retaliated with left winger Dukie McNamara scoring and assists going to center Dave Sopp and right winger Glen Driscoll, making the score 5-3. Center Matt Pothier and wingers Todd Roycroft and Gary Bleszinski immediately put tremendous pressure on the Wilmington goalie only to be denied by some fine saves. Wilmington upped the score to 7-3 before Matt Pothier scored a nifty unassisted goal that made the score 7-4. In an unusual move, Andover pulled goalie Mike Murnane with over four minutes left in the game because Wilmington had two men in the penalty box thus giving Andover a six men to three skating advantage. The move proved fruitful as Brent Raftery completed his hat trick on a pass from Farnham, which ended the scoring and produced a final score of 7-5. Starting goalie Timmy Lane played a fine game as three of Wilmington's first four goals were scored on breakaways.

Mites 1 - Lynn 9

The Andover Mites squad came down to earth with a bump last Saturday, taking a 9-1 beating from a well disciplined Lynn side. The euphoria from previous victories was soundly quelled as a hard working Lynn unit outshot and outscored Andover throughout. Andover lost touch with the organized playmaking that had been their hall mark in previous weeks. Players were assigned new positions prior to the game and never quite adjusted to them. Defensemen were skating up, and attackers holding back, with the net result that team play disintegrated. Much hard skating and enthusiasm produced only a consolation goal by Sean Darwin, assisted by Joey Liguori. In between the goals, goalie Chris Pothier kept alert and made many good stops, saving the defeat from being any worse. A bow to Kevin Smith, too, for being the defenseman who kept his position best of all.

No doubt this talented team will bounce back again in future weeks. In the meantime, it's back to the drawing board, or to the salt, pepper and mustard pots at their parents' dining tables!

The Mites have a busy schedule this weekend as Andover hosts a Thanksgiving Mike Tournament on Nov. 27, 28 and 29 at Phillips Academy. Games run from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Sunday.

PeeWee B

Andover 3 - Lawrence 0

Pressure was on Lawrence's goalie from the opening faceoff when Michael Nelligan hit Robert Stoltz in the slot. Stoltz faked the shot and as their goalie went down, sent the puck to Dan Hegerty who wasted no time putting the puck in the net. Offensively Andover continued to pour shots on net but good goaltending by Lawrence kept the puck from going in. With less than two minutes left in the first period, the line of Danny Landoli, Peter Donegian and Doug Bleszinski struck for Andover's second goal. Landoli sent a nice pass to Donegian who broke in alone and beat Lawrence's goalie with a fine wrist shot. The period ended with Andover on top 2 to 0. Goalie Ian Anderson played super and saved seven shots on net.

Second period offensive opportunities favored Lawrence but Goalie Anderson was up to the task and stopped all six shots by Lawrence. Defense played an important part in this period as Lous LoPresti was able to spoil two Lawrence breakaways. John Leng and Brian Costello stood out by keeping the puck away from Lawrence's forwards. Chris Boyle and Chris McAnally broke up Lawrence's offense in front of Goalie Anderson several times. The period ended with Andover outshooting Lawrence 8 to 6.

In the third period Andover took it to Lawrence both offensively and defensively. The line of Jeff Leonard, Hugh Maginnis and Andy Weiner broke the scoring hiatus in the middle of the third period. Weiner, on right win, fired the puck across the crease and Leonard banged it in over the sprawled Lawrence goalie. Andover's defensemen shut down Lawrence for the final six minutes and the game ended with a well-deserved 3 to 0 win for Andover. This was Ian Anderson's second shutout of the season and an especially rewarding one for him as he played the entire game. In all, this was one of Andover's best all around performances.

Danvers League Squirt A

Andover 5 - Wilmington 0

Andover tried out some new breakout tactics and made an impressive effort to use new passing patterns, and although they dominated the opposition, it took till early in the second period to put things together and get their first goal. After that, it was easy.

The first goal came on a pretty play when defenseman Lou LoPresti moved the puck in to Hugh Maginnis near the corner for a backhand which Jeff Leonard deflected in. It took until the end of the period before Andover could tally again. This time Leonard got off a good shot, which was partially blocked, and Maginnis got the score, tapping home the loose puck.

In between, defensemen John Leng, Brian Costello and Chris Boyle all did some fine work controlling the points and helping to sustain offensive pressure. Peter Donegian, Doug Bleszinski and Dan Landoli put on a good demonstration of tight control of the puck at both ends of the ice.

Early in the third period Dan Hegarty started a picture play, grabbing a loose puck in his own zone and sending away a two on one with a long pass up to a breaking Mike Nelligan. Nelligan carried down to the net, drawing the defender and goalie to the left, and at the last second put a soft pass right on the stick of Bob Stoltz, coming in on the other side. Stoltz took the pass without breaking stride and tossed into the open corner, for Andover's third goal.

Then Maginnis and Leonard got back into the act, with Hugh getting the goal again, with the assist to Jeff. And less than two minutes later, Maginnis capped off his second hat trick in two games.

A one-day ski trip to Crotched Mountain has been planned for this year's DCS Christmas vacation special event on Tuesday, Dec. 29. The trip is open to residents seventh grade and older. Because of the special price arranged for this trip, space will be limited to the first 80. There are two options to choose from: package A includes lift, lesson, rental and transportation; package B includes lift, lesson and transportation. Registration will begin Dec. 7 at the DCS office.

Open Gym Cancelled

Due to the Thanksgiving recess, the Open Gym program scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 25, and Sunday, Nov. 29, has been cancelled. The Open Gym program will resume on Monday, Nov. 30. Open Gym programs scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 25, and Friday, Nov. 27, at the junior highs have also been cancelled.

Sign Up Dates For Ski Programs

The Bradford Hill ski program, scheduled to begin Jan. 4, and the Rolling Green Cross Country Ski program will hold its registration at the DCS office on Dec. 7. The Sugarloaf weekend for junior/senior high students, scheduled for Jan. 22-24 and Feb. 26-28 respectively, will hold its registration Dec. 9, 2:15 p.m. in the East Jr. High cafeteria; Dec. 10, 2:15 p.m. in the West Junior High cafeteria; Jan. 6 at the high school cafeteria. Additional information is available at the DCS office, Hockey Shop, Sport Shop and the school's main office.

Mens Basketball League

After three weeks of play in the Mens Senior Basketball League, the standings are: McDonalds 2-0; Brothers LTD 2-1; Panthers 2-1; Suns 1-1; Pick-Ups 1-1; Andover Optical 1-2; Stealers 0-3.

The standings in the Mens Junior Basketball League after one week of play are Howe, McCrackens and Trombly 1-0; Lafond, Frocione and P.M. Cleaning 0-1. No games are scheduled in either division for Thursday due to the holiday.

Girls Basketball League

Plans are being made for the Girls Basketball League which will begin in early January. Further information will be released at the end of November.

Christmas Centerpiece Workshop

A centerpiece workshop for children in grades 3 and 4 and 5 and six will be held on Saturday, Dec. 12. Children will have the opportunity to make an ever-green centerpiece that looks like it came from the florist. The session for children in grades 3 and 4 will meet between 12:30 p.m. and 2 p.m.; grades 5 and 6 will meet between 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Both sessions will be held at the high school. Supply list available at registration. DCS office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Christmas Cookie Workshop

Children will use their skills and imagination to make Christmas cookies to take home and share with their families. Children should bring a cookie sheet to class; all other supplies are provided. Grades 1 and 2 will attend class on Monday, Dec. 7; grades 3 and 4 will have class on Tuesday, Dec. 8. Both workshops will be held at the West Jr. High School. Spaces are limited. Register at the DCS office in the Shawsheen School.

Department Closes For Weekend

The Department of Community Services office will be closed Thursday, Nov. 26 through Sunday, Nov. 29 for the Thanksgiving recess.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

How about a trip to Ireland? And without leaving Andover! Carleton Shulze will be conducting a travelog of that land of the druids and the shamrock, the lovely emerald green—Ireland, Monday, Nov. 30, at 2 p.m. at The Haven. You'll love it!

The Council on Aging is sponsoring a trip to Hanover House and the Mall of New Hampshire Dec. 9, leaving the senior center at 10:30 a.m. and returning about 5 p.m. and costing $11. The price includes a delicious buffet luncheon at Hanover House. There are still a few seats left, so if you don't want to be disappointed, sign up now!

The Haven will be closed Thanksgiving Day.

Two new classes are starting next week. On Thursday, Dec. 3, at 9:30 a.m. Don Scott will be conducting a course in humanities entitled "In Search of Meaning." The course is free. And on Friday Barbara Foster will be back with another ten weeks of "Exercise for Fun and Fitness," starting at 10 a.m. There will be a five dollar fee for the exercise class.

Thursday afternoon, Dec. 3, the Andover Historical Society will present a slide-tape program at The Haven entitled "Cotton Manufacturing in New England." It will start at 2 p.m. and of course, is free. Come learn more about that special place we live in—New England!

The Internal Revenue Service is looking for people to volunteer their time and effort to assist elderly persons in their own community in the preparation of their 1981 tax returns. They will train you. If you are interested, call The Haven at 470-0870.

The Council on Aging Christmas Party is coming up Dec. 16 at West Junior High, starting at 5:30 p.m. Tickets are available now at the senior center and cost $3.50. Not only will you enjoy a full course, dinner, but special entertainment as well. Don't wait until the last minute. Get your tickets now!

The next mini-clinic is scheduled for The Haven, Tuesday, Dec. 1. Call the Andover Health Dept. for an appointment and information regarding this free service.

Fall Programs For Adults

"Physical Fitness is something that only you can do for yourself, but you can get lots of help from the Andover-North Andover YMCA as it offers numerous fitness classes to meet the needs of the individual," stated Robert Lavoie, Physical Director at the Andover-North Andover YMCA.

Highlighting the late Fall Term will be the Cardiovascular fitness program, a scientific testing and progressive conditioning program to improve the cardiovascular and muscular fitness of adults. This program offers a battery of physical fitness tests, individual test interpretation and professionally directed progressive conditioning exercises. Co-ed classes will meet Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 6:30-7:30 p.m. or 7:15-8:15 p.m. Participants will progress through a ten-week beginner program, followed by a ten-week intermediate program leading into a continuous maintenance program. Lavoie pointed out that this program is part of a National YMCA cardiovascular health program that is expected to be serving 8,000,000 Americans by 1982.

Aquacises, a special exercise program in the pool, will meet Tuesday & Thursday evenings from 7:45-8:30 p.m. This program can be enjoyed by swimmers & non-swimmers alike.

Fitness for the Unfit, a fun conditioning program emphasizing rhythmic movements, flexibility, endurance and strength exercises to help you feel fit again, will meet Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6-7 p.m.

Slimnastics, a fun and conditioning program for women will be held Tuesday and Thursday mornings 9:15-10 a.m. Babysitting will be available for a small fee.

Dance Aerobics, designed for women to enhance cardiovascular fitness, combines the basic elements of a good fitness workout with the fun of dancing. It will be held Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 10-11 a.m. or Tuesday and Thursday, 7:30-8:30 p.m. Babysitting will also be available for a small fee with the morning classes.

Included in the Late Fall Term will be Tang Soo Do Karate. This family-oriented program strives to develop one as a person by means of mental and physical development. Instruction in self-defense, sparring forms and breaking techniques will be included in this year-round program where students may be promoted through the various belts. Under the direction of Master Instructor Richard Byrne, World Champion and President of the American Tang Soo Do Assn., classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evening from 6-8 p.m. The program is open to adults and children 6th grade and up.

A supervised weight-training program for women, explaining the proper use of the 10-station Universal Gym as well as program set-up for each woman's particular needs will be offered Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 11:30-12 noon. Workouts designed to improve total fitness will begin November 30 and end December 18.

Adult swim instructions, geared to the individual needs through stroke improvement and/or certification, will be offered to beginners through advanced beginners on Tuesday or Thursdays from 10:30-11:15 a.m. and Wednesday or Thursday from 8:30-9:15 p.m. Terrified Swim classes, for those adults who have an overwhelming fear of the water, will be available on Tuesday 8:30-9:15 p.m. or Wednesday 1-2:45 p.m. Introduction to Springboard Diving, for adults who wish to learn fundamental skills related to performance of a variety of dives, will be held on Wednesdays from 1-1:45 p.m. Emphasis will be on front and back dives. Instruction in twisting, inward and reverse dives will also be included if class warrants. Aerobic & Endurance Swim classes will offer adults fitness through an individualized swim exercise plan. Classes will meet Monday 1-1:45, or 8:30-9:15 p.m.

If you're a "golden oldie" (20 or over) and like to stay in shape through swimming, then the YMCA Master Swim Team is waiting for you. There are many former, or would-be, competitive swimmers out there and we would like you to join us in representing the Andover-North Andover YMCA at Master Meets. Most Masters train on their own during early morning and lap swims, but, in addition, we offer these times so we can train together: Monday 8:30-9:15 p.m. and Sundays 7:30-8:15 p.m.

Special Interests Programs offered with the Late Fall Term include: Assertiveness Training, Puppy Kindergarten, Dog Obedience, Post-Graduate Pups, Basic Knitting, Oil Painting, Adult Ceramics, Edible Wreath Workshop and a Gingerbread House.

Mr. Lavoie concluded, "For the busy man or woman who wants to keep healthy and young there is no better investment than a membership in the Andover-North Andover YMCA. Regular membership offers full use of the following facilities: a 45 x 75 foot indoor swimming pool, double sized gymnasium, physical program room, weight room and modern showers and locker rooms.

Registrations are now being accepted at the Andover-North Andover YMCA. For further information including a complete brochure covering all programs, times and fees, drop in at the "Y", 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

Guards At Garden

The Boston Garden and Columbia Artists Festival are proud to announce the coming of Her Majesty the Queen's Coldstream Guards and the Royal Scots Dragoon Guards. Considered two of Great Britain's most celebrated and distinguished regiments, the Coldstream Guards and the Royal Scots Dragoon Guards furnished the pomp and ceremony at the royal wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer. By the gracious permission of the Prince and Princess of Wales, about 90 of these favored Coldstream Guards and Royal Scots Dragoon Guards will fly to Boston to perform Dec. 5 and 6 at Boston Garden at 1:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Boston Garden Box Office and ticketron locations.

The first city-wide general strike took place in Seattle in 1919, when approximately 60,000 workers refused to go to work in support of striking metal trades' workers seeking a wage increase, according to a U.S. Department of Labor publication, "Labor Firsts in America."

Developer

not effect the negotiations, — but it certainly hasn't enhanced the negotiations," he commented.

"That piece of land could be replanted," McQuade said, but added, "maybe not in our lifetime."

Acting Town Manager Tony Torrisi indicated that Kalogianis was using his clearing operation as "a pressure point" in the negotiations, which are "still going on. Hopefully they will not be protracted — but there is a little bit of sweat involved right now."

Kalogianis' request for the selectmen's approval of a proposed eight-inch sanitary sewer system to serve his Pole Hill subdivision, called "Waterford Place", appeared on the board's agenda Monday night. The developer was not present.

Selectman Susan Poore pointed out that with each step the developer takes through the approval process, bringing him closer to construction on the hill, he raises his asking price for the swap.

"We are complicating our own negotiations," Poore maintained. Likening the talks to a poker game, she said the town has been "giving all the aces, all the kings, all the queens and all the jacks" to the developer.

Selectman Donn Byrne agreed: "We're upping the ante ourselves."

On a motion made by Jerry Silverman, the selectmen voted unanimously to reject the sewer request, and delay considering it again until negotiations for the swap have been completed.

Tynning appeared before the board with a long list of questions Ballardvale residents have about Waterford Place, which she said the planning board and conservation commission have not answered.

Approval of the subdivision has been "mass confusion," she said, with the two boards' responsibilities "overlapping." Tynning said the town's wetlands protection act was being "misinterpreted," and that the development disregarded the 100-year flood plain.

The ConComm has a deadline of next Tuesday for acting on the developer's notice of intent to build on Pole Hill. "We want to be sure all the bases have been touched," Tynning told the board.

Although their actions may "appear confusing", both the planners and the conservation commissioners have followed the proper procedures and stayed within legal guidelines for approving the proposed subdivision, McQuade said.

Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore agreed.

"The Ballardvale people may feel that this has fallen between the cracks," he said, "but that is indeed not the case. The process may move more slowly than we all would like, but eventually we would have gotten around to some of the concerns expressed here tonight."

Gilmore added that his department would answer the townspeople's questions either informally or in formal meetings.

No Change In Mileage Deduction

The standard mileage rate deduction for autos used for business, charitable, medical and moving purposes in 1981 will be the same as for 1980, according to Herbert B. Mosher, district director for IRS in Massachusetts.

The rate for business use of an auto is 20 cents for the first 15,000 miles and 11 cents for mileage over 15,000. The 11-cent rate also applies to fully depreciated autos. The rate for an auto used for charitable, medical and moving purposes is nine cents a mile.

Mosher pointed out that use of the business standard mileage rate is optional and that it is deducted in place of the actual operating and fixed costs attributable to the business use of an auto. However, certain other expenses, such as parking fees, tolls and interest paid to finance the purchase of an auto may be deducted in addition to the standard mileage rate.

Theatre Night For Hadassah

The Greater Lawrence Chapter of Hadassah is planning a theatre evening for its membership on Sunday, Dec. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Next Move Theatre in Boston, to see "Table Settings." It's a brisk, witty and swiftly paced comedy, depicting the adventures of three generations of a middle class American family. The Hadassah group will also enjoy a wine and cheese reception with the cast after the performance. Ticket sales are limited and reservations must be made by Dec. 1. For information and reservations, contact Mrs. Ruth Weiner of Andover.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — November 1906

All those who are intending to become members of the Abbott Village Coal Society should remember that the first payment is to be this evening.

John Poland, one of the best forwards on the Andover Association football team met with a serious accident while playing against Methuen at Methuen last Saturday, when he injured his ankle.

The Memorial Hall Library is now open continuously from three in the afternoon until nine in the evening, and the number of people who find this arrangement a great convenience is steadily increasing.

Judge and Mrs. George W. Cann returned last Saturday from the wilds of Maine, where the former spent about a month in a profitable, as well as an enjoyable hunting expedition. The judge is a crack shot and the proceeds of his marksmanship consisted of two deer, a bear and four cubs, as well as much smaller game.

The tickets for the Andover-Exeter football game went on sale yesterday in the Andover Bookstore and Wright & Ditson's, Boston. The tickets are $1.00 and $1.50 for the grandstand and 50 cents for general admission.

50 Years Ago — November 1931

Four-hundred and five children are transported to the different schools in Andover, it was brought out at the monthly meeting of the Andover school committee Tuesday evening at the committee rooms. Mr. Johnson transports 108, Mr. Wright 138, the street railway bus 86, the trolley 36, and the railroad 37.

Eight fistfights and a near riot, involving both spectators and players, marked a scheduled game between the Andover Independents and the South Lawrence Wanderers last Sunday afternoon at the Lawrence stadium when the Andover team swept through the city eleven for a 19-0 victory and by it aroused the anger of spectators and opponents who took the win as a signal for a free-for-all brawl.

Controversy over the merits of the present art exhibit from the Bliss collection of modern French art has broken out among the faculty members of Phillips Academy and their opinions are receiving expression in "The Phillipian," student newspaper at the academy. Terms such as "trivial", "sloppy", "grotesque", and "palsied" have been applied to the exhibit now current at the Addison Gallery of American Art.

A thirteen-year-old Ballardvale boy who yesterday morning was rushed in the fire department ambulance to the Lawrence General hospital suffering from severe gunshot wounds on his right side and who told police during the day that he had been shot by some person, last night from his bed in the hospital told Officer Carl H. Stevens that he "did not think anybody shot him" and that he accidentally shot himself.

25 Years Ago — November 1956

An immediate goal of 1000 employees by next September has been set by the Raytheon Manufacturing Company for the Shawsheen Mills. Since its announcement last weekend that Army Ordnance contracts worth $35,000,000 had been secured, Raytheon has moved swiftly to begin conversion of the plant and property.

Fluoridation equipment is on hand but has not been installed. Town Engineer Ralph Preble, queried about progress in the town-authorized fluoridation program, said the equipment will not be installed until a decision is reached on creating a chemical equipment room at the pumping station at Haggett's Pond.

Even as the dust has barely settled from the state and national election this month, the opening gun in the 1957 town manager campaign was fired by the Taxpayers Association. President Henry T. Wolfson announced the creation of a four-member committee to steer the manager campaign through the coming months.

Policewomen may take over school traffic direction soon. The selectmen conferred with Police Chief David Nicoll Monday night about hiring three women to take over police work at crossings during school rush hours.

New home construction figures in October apparently hit a new high for the town. Building Inspector Ralph W. Coleman announced yesterday that permits for new homes valued at $606,800 were issued during the month. Some 32 houses, all with garages, were listed as approved for construction after scrutiny by town boards, the selectmen and building inspector.

10 Years Ago — November 1971

The selectmen, taking cognizance of a problem of vehicles using town land, told the Conservation Commission Monday night that some direction should be given by either the board or the town manager in relieving the problem. The board discussed with conservation members the problem of mini-bikes, motorcycles, and the coming of snowmobile weather.

Downtown parking is under study by a consultant group working for the planning board. Voorhees Associates, Inc. of Boston began its work this week, with students working in the downtown area surveying the section. The consultants have been asked to take an overall view of the downtown area to determine the most useful pattern for parking within the commercial area.

The New Hampshire Historical Society, 30 Park St., Concord, is located in a marble and granite palace designed by Exeter architect Guy Lowell after he finished the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. It's open Monday through Friday, 9 to 4:30 p.m., Wednesday till 8. Closed Saturday, Sunday and holidays: free.

Efforts to get piles of dirt along Andover Street removed before snow and ice conditions hit the town are being made by Public Works Director Robert McQuade. McQuade said Wednesday that the piles of dirt are the result of excavations made by the Lawrence Gas Co. and contractors working under the State Department of Public Works.

Holiday Concerts At The Library

Memorial Hall Library

Memorial Hall Library and the Friends of the Library will present Jerry Vovcsko, folksinger/storyteller in two performances at the library on Friday, Nov. 27, one at 2 p.m. for children and the other at 7:30 p.m. for a family audience.

Jerry Vovcsko has performed extensively in New England for museums, festivals, radio and TV. His performances touch children (and adults) of every age and background. Every story has its complement of music and magic, which augment the imagery Vovcsko creates through his extraordinary storytelling abilities.

Western Roundup

By Kristen James

Students as well as faculty at Andover West Junior High are now seeing the structure of the new library beginning to take form. The skeleton of the building was nearly completed this week as the beams for the Japanese-style pagoda roof were installed. Sidewalk superintendents around our school have found the progress of the construction work interesting.

With the completion of auditions for the upcoming drama production, the final cast been chosen. Some of the characters in the play, "Airline," include: Lulu VanOops (Amy Skinder; Mrs. Dragbottom (Christina O'Hearne) and her daughters (Amy Goldstein, Allison Regetto); Ms. Dagmar (Beth Deacon) and Mrs. Stillwater (Marsha Hollis); Karyn Worthley, Michelle DeVoir, Anne Corazza and Kris James play the stewardesses; Smiling Jack Pott (Bob Mattedi); Pilots (Steve Shestinian, Jacob Meanier) and Knuckles (Chris Buckley).

This production is a play based on the recently popular movie, "Airplane."

There's a new program at West Junior High called "the doctor is in." The first week's topic covered CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation). First students watched a film concerning heart attacks and the prevention of death by CPR, then asked Dr. Kim, medical consultant to the Andover school, questions about the presentation. The information gained is important because students will now be prepared if a medical emergency arises.

Refreshments provided by the Friends of Memorial Hall Library will be served following each performance. Seating is limited and tickets are required. They are now available at no charge at both the circulation desk and the Children's Room.

Christmas Films For Loan

A new 16mm film, "Christmas Cracker," joins a collection of other Christmas films in various formats available at Memorial Hall Library. "Christmas cracker" is a nine-minute anthology of three humorous, highly imaginative animated films. Although especially suitable for children, it would be enjoyed by all ages. Another 16mm film, "Spunky the Snowman" and an 8mm cartridge film, "Little Match Girl" are also available to groups free of charge for a 24-hour loan period. Andover residents, both groups and individuals, may borrow a 19-minute selection of Walt Disney 8mm animated sound films called "A Walt Disney Christmas." Rental of an 8mm sound projector at a $5 charge is required with the loan of this film.

In the past, the Christmas films have been popular, so they should be booked as early as possible to ensure getting the preferred show date. Films may be reserved at the reference desk or by calling 475-6960.

Giant, live Christmas wreaths have been placed on utility poles in the downtown area again this year by the Andover Center Merchants, a division of the Andover Chamber of Commerce. The live wreaths were used for the first time a year ago, rather than the tinsel, foil and artificial decorations of prior years, and received considerable appreciative comments from residents and shoppers alike in the downtown area.

Special Session In Hands Of FinCom

The fate of the gypsy moth caterpillar special town meeting now rests with the Finance Committee.

If the FinComm approves a private warrant article for appropriating $200,000 to spray 18,000 acres of the town with Sevin (carbaryl), a special town meeting will be convened on Wednesday, Jan. 6.

And if the committee vetoes the article, there will be no town meeting, and no town spraying of gypsy moths in 1982.

Presented with more than 300 signatures on a petition calling for a special town meeting, the selectmen Monday night voted to call the meeting on Jan. 6, if the FinComm approves the article.

The Finance Committee will meet at 7:30 next Wednesday night, Dec. 2, at Town Hall to discuss the article. Under a town bylaw, the committee must approve all money articles before a special town meeting can be called.

Selectman Donn Byrne, a former FinCom chairman, seemed confident the committee would not block the special meeting. The committee has used its veto power only twice in recent years, he noted.

If the Finance Committee does approve the article, the selectmen will vote to open and close the town meeting warrant during their next meeting on Monday, Dec. 7.

Because the meeting will be held after the end of this year, the money for spraying could not be taken from this year's budget and added to this year's tax rate; it would have to come from next year's budget.

Doreen Correnti of Tilton Lane, who started the petition drive, told the selectmen she felt "the legitimacy of the issue was taken very lightly" by the selectmen when she presented her first petition to the board two weeks ago.

The board rejected her first petition because they said it did not include information on what chemical would be sprayed and how much it would cost.

"Andover is going to be a devastated area," Correnti said.

Selectman Jerry Silverman agreed, but said it was "a question of whether spraying will help," at a time when "police or fire" personnel might have to be sacrificed to fund the spraying.

"We gave up mosquito spraying for that reason (because it was ineffective)," Byrne added. "Spraying may not do the job you think it's going to do."

A report by the gypsy moth committee, a subcommittee of the Board of Health, recommended against spraying because the cost would probably outweigh the benefits, he noted.

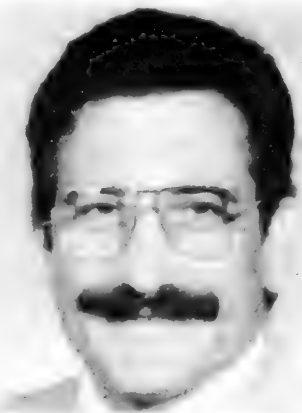

"Let the people go to town meeting, and let the people decide for themselves," Correnti answered.

She added that she believes homeowners are spraying Sevin privately all over town "like crazy, in highly concentrated doses."

The warrant article calls for spraying most of the town, excluding waterways, roadways and the state forest. The Board of Health and Public Works director would make the final decision on what parts of town would be sprayed, according to acting Town Manager Tony Torrisi.

Public Works Director Bob McQuade told the selectmen he wanted a legal opinion on whether the town would be obligated to honor requests not to spray private properties — and what the town's liability would be if those areas were sprayed.

Town officials anticipate objections to spraying from many property-owners for health and environmental reasons, if the town meeting is held and the article passes.

Proposed Frontage Road Industrial Building

Physical Sciences Breaks Ground

Construction began in October on the new Physical Sciences Inc. facility at Frontage Road in Andover.

Physical Sciences Inc. (PSI), a research and development organization specializing in energy research, environmental science, and laser technology is currently located in Woburn, and plans to move its entire 60-person operation to their new 24,000 sq. ft. Andover facility in June, 1981. PSI's 5.4 acre site is one of the few remaining wooded lots to be zoned for light industrial use in this rapidly developing area off Route 93.

Designed and being built by Channel Building Co. of Andover, the new facility will reflect PSI's stated objectives of maximum structural flexibility for office reorganization and future expansion, a high degree of residential quality within the building's office space, and an external appearance that will harmonize with the natural wooded site.

To accomplish these objectives, the PSI building was designed as two intertwined structures, one serving primarily as office space and the second functioning as a research complex and experimental laboratory. Both single-story buildings will be built of earthenware masonry and rough sawn cedar siding exteriors accented with bands of dark bronze glass. The office building, which includes a computer room, library, several acoustically controlled conference areas, and kitchen, will house over 30 one- and two-person offices which will be located on the periphery of the building for outdoor views of the quiet, rustic setting.

Channel Building Co., a regional design and construction firm specializing in commercial and industrial buildings, was also responsible for site location of the Frontage Road property. Ryan, Elliott and Company of Boston assisted in the land sale. Headquartered in Andover since 1964, Channel also offers real estate development services through its sister firm, the Bayfield Company.

Sponsor Retirement Seminars

Andover Bank will sponsor two hour-long seminars concerning the upcoming changes in the federal income tax laws governing retirement savings programs.

The seminars, "Retirement Plans: Changes on the Horizon," will be led by Jo-Anne Giuffrida, the bank's retirement plans coordinator.

According to Giuffrida, the most significant changes deal with deposit limits and qualifications for opening retirement savings accounts.

Under the new laws, persons with Keogh Accounts will be allowed to make annual contributions totaling $15,000. Under current law, the deposit limit is $7,500 or 15 percent of earned income, whichever is less.

The deposit limits for Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) has also been raised.

The new laws also state that everyone is now entitled to open an IRA. In the past, IRAs were restricted to those who were not covered by a pension plan where they work.

The seminars, which are free and open to the public, will take place on Saturday, Nov. 28, at 9:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. in the main office of Andover Bank, 61 Main St., Andover.

Andover Co. Completes Investment

Daniel J. Holland, president of Massachusetts Capital Resource Company (MCRC) and William E. Dorman, III, president of Dorman Bogdonoff Corp., have announced the completion of an investment in the amount of $200,000 in the Andover-based company.

Dorman Bogdonoff was formed in 1977 as a screen-print shop and subsequently moved into more precise industrial applications of screenprinting. Today the company's main product line is the customized manufacturing of specialized membrane keyboards primarily for the electronics industry; the units are used in data input applications to replace traditional mechanical switches.

The MCRC investment, made in the form of purchased shares, is part of $650,000 in new capital to support the company's expected sales growth over the next two years. Kevin J. Dougherty, vice president at MCRC, was the loan officer responsible for the investment.

Electric Co. Requests New Line

New England Electric Transmission Corporation (NEET), a subsidiary of New England Electric, has filed an application to build a transmission line in New Hampshire, thus taking the first major step toward bringing economical hydroelectric power from Quebec to consumers in New England.

NEET requested a Certificate of Site and Facility from the New Hampshire Public Utilities Commission to construct, operate, and maintain an 83-mile, 690 megawatt direct current transmission line.

The line will run from the Canadian border to New England Electric's Comerford Hydroelectric Station in Monroe, N.H., where NEET will construct a new $67 million terminal. A similar terminal will be built near Sherbrooke, Quebec, by Hydro-Quebec, the provincial utility of Quebec.

"We are taking the lead in building this $74 million line in New Hampshire to connect the utilities in New England with Quebec as quickly as possible for the benefit of all electric utility consumers in New England," said Russell A. Holden, chairman of NEET. "Hydroelectric power from Quebec will help to lower energy costs to consumers in New England and reduce our region's dependence on expensive foreign oil," said Holden.

Holden explained the transmission line is needed to obtain access to power from the James Bay Project, a series of hydroelectric facilities being developed by Hydro-Quebec. Surplus energy from the project will be available during the 1990s for sale to the New England Power Pool, an organization of New England utilities which coordinates the planning and operation of the generation and transmission facilities of its members.

The transmission line also will be available for energy banking whereby New England utilities will be able to transmit relatively inexpensive energy north to Quebec during the off-peak, nighttime hours, and receive equal amounts during the peak or daytime hours, when replacement costs are much higher. The line also will provide the opportunity for New England utilities to purchase additional hydroelectric power which Hydro-Quebec plans to develop during the 1990s.

The New Hampshire route is one of two alternatives being evaluated by the New England Power Pool. The other route is through Vermont.

Pending regulatory approval from the New Hampshire Public Utilities Commission and the decision by the New England Power Pool to build the line in New Hampshire, construction would begin in the summer of 1983 and would be completed by 1986.

New England Electric System is a public utility holding company headquartered in Westborough, Mass. System companies include Massachusetts Electric Company, Narragansett Electric Company in Rhode Island, Granite State Electric Company in New Hampshire, New England Power Company, and New England Energy Incorporated.

H-P Introduces New EKG Record Machine

A new multi-channel electrocardiograph that produces a variety of records of human heart activity on a standard-size 8½" x 11" sheet of paper has been introduced by Hewlett-Packard, Andover.

To enable the portable instrument to withstand the rigors of bedside service at a hospital or field service in rural or Third World areas, the PageWriter unit is housed in a sturdy, attractive case made of Bayblend MH-6500 polycarbonate/ABS alloy. In addition to being specified for its impact resistance, the flame-retardant engineering thermoplastic resin, made by Mobay Chemical Corporation of Pittsburgh, Pa., was selected principally for its ability to resist color fading when exposed to fluorescent light.

To produce a unit with one-third the weight and size, and one-half the cost of competitive cardiographs, Hewlett-Packard uses a microprocessor-controlled system that records on a single standard letter-size sheet the traces for three channels and an optional rhythm strip. Separate writing units normally are needed for each channel, and the traces are recorded on continuous sheets of paper.

In the Hewlett-Packard unit, the electrocardiograph records one channel in "real time" and then the other two from its memory. The PageWriter unit is 16½" long x 15½" wide x 3½" high.

"High impact resistance was the most important property in selecting the material for the 11 parts of our cardiograph housing," said Ted Minor, Hewlett-Packard engineer who selected the material. "We had to have a material that would resist the nicks and dings of portable use."

Bayblend MH-6500 has a notched Izod impact range of 5.0 to 8.0 ft-lb/in at 73 degree F on a 0.125" specimen.

Preserving the color of the $5,000 instrument's housing in the face of extensive exposure to fluorescent light also was a high priority consideration, Minor said. "Nothing is more disappointing than to have the color of an instrument turn from a nice light gray to a yellowish color after six months or a year," he noted.

The Hewlett-Packard special pearl gray color, blended into the Bayblend alloy, resists the effects of exposure to indoor ultraviolet light.

Although there is no consensus light-exposure test, Mobay says, "MH-6500 has shown excellent color stability in a variety of color-accelerated ultraviolet exposure trials."

Since the color of MH-6500 is integral, minor nicks and scratches are less noticeable than if a material were used that requires a surface finish.

"A rich surface appearance was also important to us," Minor added. "Of all the engineering materials with the high-impact structural properties we considered, this combination of polycarbonate and ABS presented the best low-gloss, matte type of finish."

In flame retardancy, the blend complies with requirements for UL94 rating of V-O at 0.062" thickness and 5V at 0.125" minimum thickness.

With the cardiograph housing weighing six pounds, or about one-third of the total weight of the 18-pound instrument, the price of Bayblend MH-6500 was considered attractive.

Before selecting Bayblend, Hewlett-Packard engineers considered several other materials. They rejected structural foam for two reasons: It would require thicker walls, thus enlarging the overall size of the unit. Also, it would have to be painted after molding, making it vulnerable to nicks and adding to the cost.

The U.S. Army once had a Camel Corps right in the U.S. It was formed in 1857 to help patrol the Western wilderness.

Charles F. Richmond

To Direct Contracts Section

Joseph C. Allwarden, vice president, marketing, Kollsman Instrument Company, Merrimack and Nashua, has announced the promotion of Charles F. Richmond to vice president, contracts and product support.

Richmond joined Kollsman in June 1975 as contracts manager and was promoted within three years to director, contracts and product support. His responsibilities include administration of all contracts, product support liaison with all Kollsman's customers worldwide and field service.

Richmond graduated from Norwich University, Northfield, VT, with a B.S. degree in business administration and has undertaken post graduate studies at both Boston and Tufts Universities. He, his wife, Frances, and their four sons live in Andover.

Kollsman Instrument Company, a leading producer of aircraft instrumentation and electro-optical systems, is a division of Sun Chemical Corporation, a New York based manufacturer of printing inks and organic pigments, graphic equipment, specialty chemicals and diversified products.

Crane Sues Brokerage Companies

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane filed suit against two Boston brokerage firms, Burgess & Leith and F.L. Putnam, to compel them to return more than $114,000.00 owing to their customers.

Crane's Suffolk County Superior Court actions charged Burgess & Leith with wrongfully taking $70,767. in unclaimed dividends, stocks, credits and miscellaneous funds owing to its customers. The suit against F.L. Putnam seeks to recover $44,155.45 in unclaimed dividends and funds belonging to missing customers.

Treasurer Crane stated, "Burgess & Leith and F.L. Putnam are out of step with the Massachusetts business community which is now making a real effort to return unclaimed monies to missing owners."

Massachusetts' Unclaimed Money Law (General Laws, Chapter 200A) seeks to reunite missing owners with their lost or forgotten funds through newspaper ads, mailed notifications and special search procedures. Until the owners are located all Massachusetts taxpayers receive the benefit of the use of these funds.

Masotta Promoted At Standex

Robert E. Masotta, vice president, has been named senior vice president of Standex International Corporation (NYSE). He will continue to serve as corporate counsel and secretary of the diversified company.

In announcing the appointment, Daniel E. Hogan, chairman and chief executive of Standex, stated that "Mr. Masotta has demonstrated an outstanding ability to contend with the ever-growing legal requirements and activities of our corporation. He has built a strong internal staff which enables us to perform many necessary legal functions on an in-house basis."

Masotta joined Standex in 1969 as director of employee benefits and was named secretary and corporate counsel in October 1975. In February 1979, he was promoted to the position of vice president. Prior to joining Standex, Masotta served in the Treasurers' Department at United Brands from 1967-69, and was employed at Liberty Mutual Insurance Company from 1964-67.

Masotta received his law degree from Suffolk University Law School (J.D.-1970). A native of Boston, he attended Boston College (A.B. Economics-1961) and graduated Boston Latin School.

A member of the American, Massachusetts and Boston Bar Associations, he is also a member of the corporation, Banking and Business Law section of the American Bar Association. He currently resides in North Andover with his wife, Cindi, and their two children.

Foreign Powers

Outside the U.S., the world has more than 70,000 megawatts of installed nuclear capacity, the equivalent of 70 one-million kilowatt plants. This will be boosted to nearly 450,000 megawatts when plants that are planned are completed. France alone plans to bring one nuclear reactor into operation every two months, on the average, between 1980 and 1985.

When you see a fire truck or ambulance approaching and hear the sirens blaring, there's no need to panic. According to the ALA Auto and Travel Club, the correct procedure is to drive immediately to the right edge of the road, stop in a position parallel to the curb and wait until the emergency vehicle has passed.

Standex Reports Increase

Standex International Corporation (NYSE) has announced a slight increase in earnings on an 85 sales gain in the first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30. The company stated that "conditions appear to be showing gradual improvement at several important divisions" and forecast an increase in both sales and earnings in the current full fiscal year over the prior year.

In the first fiscal quarter ended September 30, net income rose slightly to $3,559,000, or 53¢ a share, from net income of $3,486,000, or 52¢ a share in last year's quarter. Sales for the latest quarter amounted to $92,560,000, up 8% from last year's $85,646,000. Earnings per share in the latest quarter were based on 6,738,000 shares outstanding, compared with 6,686,000 shares outstanding a year ago.

Daniel E. Hogan, Chairman and Chief Executive of Standex, stated that "it is particularly difficult to make any definitive projections this early in the year, especially in view of the continuing economic uncertainties. However, we are confident that Standex will show definite improvement in the current fiscal year over last year. A number of our important operations are experiencing an improved pace of incoming orders and, in general, a better 'feel' for business in their respective markets." Mr. Hogan cited "improving conditions" in such areas as electronics, institutional products, some consumer products and bindery products. On the other hand, Mr. Hogan indicated that the "continuing depressed state of the housing and automotive industries continues to have an adverse effect on several divisions servicing these areas."

Mr. Hogan added that "in recognition of 'the company's strong financial condition and our confidence that the current fiscal year will show definite improvement' - the Board of Directors has increased the company's quarterly dividend to 13-3/4¢ a share, or an annual rate of 95¢ a share - up from 90¢ per year. While the dividend will be payable to shareholders of record November 9, 1981; it will not be paid until January 5, 1982 in order to enable stockholders to take advantage of the lower tax rates which become effective on January 1, 1982. Standex has increased its dividend each year since the company 'went public' in 1964 and the company has raised its dividend 17 times in the past 24 quarters."

Mr. Hogan stated that the previously-announced distribution of Standex's wholly-owned Bingo King subsidiary to its stockholders is "proceeding slowly." He expressed the hope that the "spin-off" would be concluded in the near future.

Standex International is a diversified manufacturer operating in five basic growth areas: institutional products; consumer products; graphics; industrial products and electronics.

A FAMILY DECISION

Buying a home is a family decision. For this reason, it's desirable that house-hunting be done by husband and wife wherever possible. However, in the case where a move over a considerable distance is involved, the best arrangement is for either the husband or the wife to look separately and then for both to get together to make the final decision-making inspection.

But there are some limitations when it comes to making the job of finding a new home such a large family undertaking that the group becomes a burden. Children will have a voice in the family's new home, but it is not a good idea to involve very young children in the initial house visits. Older children — such as high school or college age — are a different story. They possess a certain maturity of judgment that can contribute to a home-buying decision.

Children's needs are important in making the choice of a family home, but those needs are the best determined by the parents. It generally works out that children are happy with a house that makes their parents happy.

No Promises

Tax Bills May Be Mailed Before End Of December

Tax bills may be mailed before the end of December, but Acting Town Manager Tony Torrissi isn't making any promises because the assessors are still waiting for revaluation information from PRC Jacobs.

The revaluation firm has promised to forward that information to the assessors by the end of this month, the acting manager said last week, but there is no sign of it to date.

As long as Jacobs delivers its information to Andover by the end of November, property-owners will probably receive their tax bills by the end of the year, he added.

The revaluation firm has been reviewing its valuations of Andover property since the appeals hearing process ended in mid-September. The company has recently moved its computer operations from Virginia to Massachusetts, Torrissi said, which may explain at least part of the delay.

Once Jacobs sends its valuations to the assessors, the town will forward it to the state for certification. Then the selectmen must decide whether or not they want to use the classification method of billing.

If tax bills are not sent out by the end of the year, town officials may have to resort to one of two alternatives, Torrissi indicated: mailing estimated tax bills, which would be one-half of each taxpayer's 1980 bill; or requesting voluntary payments of industries and other taxpayers.

Personal Checks Not Acceptable

Beginning Dec. 7, personal checks will no longer be accepted for payment of automobile sales taxes at Registry of Motor Vehicles offices, it was announced by Commissioner L. Joyce Hampers of the Department of Revenue.

"Henceforth, payments must be made by cash, certified check, bank or postal money order or traveler's check," Commissioner Hampers said.

"It became absolutely necessary to take this step due to the increasing flow of bad checks. We now have a constant 'float' of $900,000 to $1 million in worthless paper. The expense and effort required to collect this money is prohibitive, and we can no longer afford it," she said.

Commissioner Hampers notified Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin of the change in the manner in which the sales excises imposed by General Laws, Chapter 64H, Section 2, are collected.
